Von Huenefeld's Poetry
Mr. Araki from Tokyo
Mr. Ochs Celebrates
A Changing World

BY ARTHUR BRISBANE

THE three fliers—two German, one Irish—will stick together and fly on to New York together. Fitzmaurice had no idea of accepting a welcome ahead of the others.

Baron von Huenefeld, who financed the Bremen trip, says that part of the time, flying through fog, he wrote poetry and part of the time wondered what was going to happen.

Von Huenefeld has been nominated for the German Parliament, and national pride will probably elect him in spite of his friendly attitude toward the ex-Kaiser.

WORTHY of your polite attention is Mr. Toichiro Araki from Tokio. He jumped out of an airplane on Long Island at 12 minutes to five yesterday morning on his way in a race around the world for the Japanese newspaper Jiji Shimpo.

Mr. Araki, by airplane, automobile, fast trains, and boats, expects to go around the world in 34 days. When Jules Verne suggested a trip in 80 days that was thought preposterous.

ADOLPH S. OCHS, owner of the New York Times, celebrates his fiftieth year as a newspaper publisher. That publishing career began in Chattanooga 50 years ago has agreed with Mr. Ochs. Friends who recently saw him climbing hills on the Pacific coast observed no change in him in the last 20 years. May he continue publishing 50 years more and then go to live in Pasadena permanently.

THE Lutheran Church received 5,000 suggestions in a national contest for an advertising slogan suited to the teachings of that church. The judges adopted this:

"A changeless Christ for a changing world."

FORTUNATELY the changing world changes its ideas of Christ and His teachings. It no longer burns witches in His name or tortures those that choose to think as they please religiously.

When Protestants in Switzerland burned Dr. Servetus alive on a slow fire, mocking his appeals for a speedier death, they thought they were pleasing Christ. They were mistaken.

KING GEORGE won his first race of the season yesterday, the Brandon Handicap. The king's horse, Scuttle, by Captain Cuttle, out of Stained Glass, carried a good deal of loyal British money bet upon him.

IF Heeney beats Tunney in the coming fight, Dempsey will return and fight Heeney. If Dempsey wins, perhaps Jeffries and Willard will return to fight him.

But Heeney probably won't beat Tunney. Even in prize-fighting, thinking counts. Tunney is the better thinker. Besides, Tunney's defeat would be unprofitable for the prize-fight "insiders."

CHARLEY BIRGER, Illinois gang leader and killer, hanged yesterday, told Rabbi Mazur he had twice tried to kill himself since his conviction. Birger hired another killer to work for him, "paying $50 for each shot that entered the body of the man picked for death." The gangster's effort to kill himself may have been due to fear that he would be unable to keep his nerve facing the hangman.

THERE are old maids in Turkey for the first time since Mohammed, recognizing man's weakness, allowed him a few more wives than one.

Living has gone up 2,000 per cent since before the war. Polygamy has been abolished. Turkish women wear European clothing, no more long veil and dress lasting a lifetime.

YOU are warned that heart disease is increasing rapidly in America. Bootleg whisky has something to do with it. The stupid habit of lashing a tired heart by drinking cocktails on an empty stomach has much to do with it. Gambling helps and the fast pace of life in general.

NEW YORK CITY is opening a "parents' exposition." It ought to be useful. A most depressing parents' exposition is the modern collection of cocktail drinking young girls, with cigaret stained fingers, and flask-carrying brothers.

HUGE WELCOME FOR FLIERS IN UNITED STATES

New York's Reception To Rival That Given for Colonel Lindbergh

CITY TO SPEND $60,000

Airmen Expected To Reach Metropolis Tuesday; Detroit Plane on Way

BULLETIN

Greenely Island, via Murray Bay, Que., April 20—The Bremen will not resume its flight to New York for at least 10 days, Capt. Hermann Koehl declared today. The German pilot, who has been working with Baron Von Huenefeld to get the transatlantic plane in flying condition, said it would be at least a week from the time the necessary repair parts arrived before the Bremen would be ready to hop off for Mitchell Field.

New York, April 20—Several million persons—residents of this city and visitors—are expected to take part in the gigantic ovation which will be given to the transatlantic airmen of the Bremen when they arrive from Greenely Island. It will be one of the biggest demonstrations of its kind ever seen here, rivaling the reception of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh.

Captain Koehl, Baron Von Huenefeld and Major Fitzmaurice are expected on Tuesday, unless held up by bad weather. Already plans have been completed for the welcome and the city has appropriated $60,000 to defray the expenses of the municipality's part, $10,000 more than was voted for the Lindbergh reception. There will be a marine parade in the Harbor and North River. The city steamer Macom, flagship of the welcoming fleet and veteran of many official receptions, will carry the airmen between lines of fireboats, police boats, snorting tugs and siren shrieking steamers. There will be a motley array of small craft. Every boat will be loaded down with humanity excitedly giving vent to emotions pent up so many hours when the fliers were "lost."

When the boats and people have whistled and yelled themselves hoarse, the Macom will dock at Pier A. And there will begin a triumphal march up Broadway from the Battery to City Hall Park.

UNIVERSITY STEER IS TRI-STATE CHAMPION

Prospect Entry in Cincinnati Show Places First in Yearling Calves

Cincinnati, April 20—"Ohio's Alexander," a Hereford steer, two years old, owned by the Ohio State University College of Agriculture is today grand champion of the pure-bred cattle show being held here by the Tri-State Pure-Bred Cattle Association.

More than 1,500 head of pure-bred stock were in the pens at the start of the show at union stock yards yesterday, representing the finest cattle from Ohio, Indiana and Kentucky.

"Ohio's Alexander" also won the Hereford fat steer class championship.

Among other Ohio champions were: Roselyn Lavender, two year old heifer Shorthorn, champion female class, owned by Roy Pickering, Kenton.

Justamere Model, yearling Shorthorn, fat class steer, owned by Homer I. Myer and son, Prospect.

Elmwood Contender, steer, Aberdeen Angus class, owned by E. G. Little, Dresden.

The silver cup trophy offered for the championship carload was won by 15 two-year-old steers owned by C. R. Salisburg, Waynesville.

Hey, Kids! Those Buttons for Safety Club Are Here

THEY'RE here at last! The third shipment of buttons for the "Just Kids Safety Club," came today and they're none too soon, for The Star office has been swamped with requests and urgent appeals for these pins. Out-of-town correspondence is almost getting ahead of the people in charge of the club.

It has been necessary to print another application blank to take care of the ever-increasing number of boys and girls who want to belong to this kiddies' club.

Those who haven't been lucky enough to get one of the blanks can cut this one out, sign it, and get a badge. The supply this time includes brightly colored pictures of Fatso, Mush, Bagears, Peanut, Nicodemus, Mom and Pop, Officer Branner and Marjory.

This is your last chance to become a member of the club, so don't waste any time about meeting the requirements for full-fledged membership.

JURY TO HAVE SINCLAIR CASE BY SATURDAY

Prosecution Forces Fact of Fall Deposition into Court Record

Washington, April 20—The prosecution took one parting fling at Harry F. Sinclair today when, over defense objection, it fohced into the record of his conspiracy trial the fact that a lengthy deposition had been taken from former Secretary of Interior Albert B. Fall but never placed in evidence.

Sinclair is charged with having given Fall a $233,000 bribe to obtain a lease on the Teapot Dome Oil Reserve. The jury will be deliberating on his fate by tomorrow.

Justice Jennings Bailey considered the matter over night and rendered his ruling when court opened this morning.

The Fall deposition at one time had been heralded as one of the pillars of the defense, containing as it does the Fall-Sinclair alibi that the $233,000 had no connection with Teapot Dome but represented the purchase price of a third interest in Fall's ranch.

Contains Admission

The deposition also contained, however, in that section devoted to cross-examination the admission of Fall that he had deliberately lied to a Senate committee about the source of $100,000 which came into his possession about the time he leased the Elks Hills Oil Reserve to E. L. Doheny. Fall got the money from Doheny, but he told the committee E. B. McLean, Washington publisher, loaned it to him.

Prosecutor Owen J. Roberts wanted the jury to know that the defense was afraid to use the deposition because of something damaging in it.

Roberts lost a point, however, when Bailey ruled against his plea to be permitted to inform the jury that at the mistrial of the Fall-Sinclair case last October, Martin W. Littleton, Sinclair attorney, had stated "evidence will show beyond a reasonable doubt that Sinclair never passed—or caused to be passed—a single bond to Fall."

$2,000 FIRE DAMAGE TO FELLERS HOUSE

Roof Is Destroyed on Dwelling Located at 181 E. Columbia-st

Fire starting from sparks on a shingle roof did damage estimated by Fire Chief McFarland at $2,000 at the home of Lee Fellers, 181 E. Columbia-st, shortly before noon today. The dwelling, a two-story frame building, is owned by Mrs. Mary Welling of Bronxville, N. Y. The loss is covered by insurance.

Fanned by a breeze, the blaze when discovered by Mrs. Fellers had gained such headway that when firemen from Central Station arrived, the entire roof was ablaze. Two lines of hose were laid and after a battle lasting nearly an hour, the flames were extinguished. The roof was destroyed.

The home of Mrs. M. E. Monnett, next the Fellers home, was damaged to the extent of $40 by flames.

NEW YORK ACTRESS WINS HEART OF KING'S COUSIN

Hollywood, Cal., April 20—How titian-haired Peggy Tudor danced before the King of Spain and captivated the monarch's handsome young cousin was revealed here today when the comely New York actress admitted her marriage to Alfonso De Figueroa Y. Bermejillo.

Member of a wealty Madrid family, the young bridegroom is a son of the Duke of Tovar, who is a first cousin to King Alfonso of Spain.

CLEVELAND, April 20—Fifty women will be sworn in as deputy sheriffs tomorrow or next Monday to act as guards at the preferential primary polls here April 24, Sheriff E. J. Hanratty announced today.

The list of names of those to help enforce law and order in and near voting booths was to be given Hanratty today by Mrs. R. S. Tyler, president of the League of Women Voters. All guards to be deputized are members of the league, it was said.

SIGNS FREMONT GAS CONTRACT

Nearly 1,400 Signatures on Petition To Block Ordinance's Action

Columbus, April 20—Fremont held the spotlight today in the bitter fight being waged between approximately 50 Ohio cities and the Logan Gas Co.

A new gas ordinance, known to have been favored by the company, was passed by the Fremont City Council a month ago. Late yesterday, it was signed by Raymond Cross, president of the company, and rushed to Fremont in an automobile in order that it might be filed in the city clerk's office before midnight, when the 30-day deadline, set by law, in which the company is required to accept or reject an ordinance setting up new rates, would have expired.

Cross himself was in conference and unavailable to interviewers today. E. M. Tharp, the company's publicity representative, stated that the ordinance was signed about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Get 1,362 Signatures

Cross had been out of town and did not return until Thursday, Tharp said,

12 TO COMPETE IN ORATORICAL EVENT TONIGHT

High School Students Ready for District Final at Star Auditorium

STARTS AT 8 O'CLOCK

Winner To Be Entered In State Contest Scheduled at Canton

Twelve high school orators stood ready today to test their ability in the district finals of the National Oratorical Contest, a movement designed to encourage greater study of the Constitution of the United States.

The 12 speakers, six boys and six girls, will compete tonight in the Star Auditorium for the championship of The Marion Star district.

The winner will take home a cash award of $75 and the opportunity of representing this district next Friday night in the state finals at Canton.

Second and third place winners will be given $50 and $25, respectively. These prizes are offered by The Star, which is a unit of the Brush-Moore Newspapers, Inc., sponsoring the contest in Ohio.

Stars at 8 O'clock

Tonight's contest will get under way promptly at 8 o'clock. The program will be interspersed with musical numbers furnished by Howard M. Tempie, music director in the Marion Public Schools.

The orators will speak on either "The Development of the Constitution" or "The Significance of the Constitution." Each speaker will be given 10 minutes.

Three judges will handle the contest. Through the kindness of several educational institutions The Star is able to give the contestants the benefit of judges who are considered among the best instructors in the state.

Miss Emma Waring, one of the judges, is instructor of oratory in Mansfield High School. Proof. R. Eldon Burke is instructor of history at Ohio Northern University at Ada. Prof.

SAYS INTERVENTION IS NOT JUSTIFIABLE

Borah Tells Senate U. S. Honor Bound To Keep Marines in Nicaragua

Washington, April 20—The United States is conducting an unjustified war in Nicaragua but is honor bound to keep her marines there to supervise the coming elections.

This declaration by Senator William E. Borah, Republican of Idaho, seemed certain today to win the Coolidge administration a Senate indorsement of its Nicaragua policy. Under Borah's leadership, the administration forces were believed strong enough to defeat an amendment to the $363,000,000 naval appropriations bill, which would force the withdrawal of all marines from Nicaragua before June 30.

Borah declared the United States was not justified in intervening in Nicaragua, that President Cldge was misinformed by Secretary of State Kellogg about conditions in Nicaragua but that that the marines would have to remain until after the elections in September. He warned, however, that the marines might have to go back there from time to time to protect whatever faction wins in September.

Marion Candidate

Rev. Norman H. Thomas, Native of Marion, Seeks Presidency of United States on Socialist Ticket

REV. NORMAN H. THOMAS

Here is Rev. Norman H. Thomas, native of Marion and nominee of the Socialist party for president of the United States.

Reverend Thomas is the son of a former pastor of the First Presbyterian Church here. He lived here during the first 17 years of his life and received his early education in Marion Schools.

He was nominated amid a tumultuous ovation at the convention of the Socialist party in New York City last Monday. His party hopes that he will lead it in a "comeback" after its poor showing of the last decade.

Death Takes Three Persons in Same Family Within Two Hours; Two at Same Time

George Strine, 20, Taken First, While Mrs. Margaret Tron and Her Father-in-Law Succumb Later; Funerals Saturday, Sunday and Monday

Within less than two hours death today had paid three visits in the family of Mrs. Margaret Strine Tron, claiming first, her cousin, George W. Strine, 20, of 604 Darius-st, second herself, and third, her father-in-law, Jacob Tron, 69, Big Island Township farmer.

Joseph Walter Tron, husband of Mrs. Tron and son of Jacob Tron, returned from being called to his father's bedside only to learn of the death of his wife. Both had passed away at exactly 5:15 o'clock this morning.

Mrs. Tron at her home, 436 Ballentine-av, and the elder Mr. Tron at his home in Big Island Township. Mr. Strine had died at 3:45 o'clock at his home.

Mrs. Tron died after a three years illness of tuberculosis, Mr. Tron of heart trouble after an illness of four months, and Mr. Strine of pneumonia, having been ill only six days.

The funerals have been arranged for Saturday, Sunday and Monday to accommodate the members of the stricken family.

Arrange Funerals

Funeral services for Mrs. Tron will be held at her late home at 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon and at 2:30 o'clock at Greenwood Evangelical Church, with the pastor, Rev. Irvin Kauffman, officiating. SMITH CLUB

Plan Organization To Push Governor's Candidacy in North Carolina

Asheville, N. C., April 20—Although Governor Smith of New York has steadfastly refused to talk politics on his two weeks' vacation here, his stay in North Carolina today led to a movement for a statewide Smith-for-president organization.

Reports were persistently in circulation that a statewide club would be formed in North Carolina to wage an active campaign for the governor's nomination.

TOLEDO NAMED

Ohio Sons of American Revolution Close Meeting at Canton

Canton, April 20—Toledo has been selected as the site of the 1929 convention of the Ohio Sons of the American Revolution.

The announcement was made following a one-day state session of the order here Thursday.

The following officers were elected at the closing meeting:

Miles S. Kuhns, Dayton, president; Jesse Sentner, Cleveland, vice-president; Walter D. McKinney, Columbus, secretary-register; Floyd G. Crandell, Toledo, treasurer; Walter J. Sherman, Toledo, historian, and Rev. E. P. Whallon, Cincinnati, chaplain.

SCORES PARTIAL VICTORY IN ALLEGED BEER TRUST

Cleveland, April 20—United States District Attorney A. E. Bernstein today had scored a partial victory in his attempts to wreck an alleged beer-smuggling "trust" operating between Pennsylvania and mid-western cities.

Five of 11 Pennsylvanians, included in federal indictments, charging conspiracy to violate the prohibition law returned here over a year ago, have been ordered extradited to Cleveland from the Keystone State, for trial, according to information on file at Bernstein's office.

CAUSES LOSS OF WORK FOR 130 EMPLOYES

Porcelain Company Property Almost Completely Destroyed by Flames

PARTLY INSURED

Firemen of Town Handicapped by Hitch in Water Service

Carey, April 20—(Special to The Star)—Fire which started at about 5:30 o'clock this morning swept the plant of the Carey Ohio Porcelain Co., resulting in almost complete destruction of the factory and its contents and loss of employment for approximately 130 workers.

The loss, estimated at about $100,000, is partly covered by insurance.

Although origin of the flames had not been definitely determined, it is thought that an overheated kiln was the cause.

As a result of inability of the local fire department to get water service from a hydrant promptly, the flames gained rapid headway and could not be checked. No flydrant was near the plant and the firemen were unable to start their hose in operation until about 20 minutes after their arrival.

Discovered by Workmen

Two workmen discovered the fire coming through the roof above one of the kilns in the building and made a futile attempt to extinguish it before summoning the fire department.

The main building, which housed the kilns, packing department and office, was almost entirely consumed by the flames.

A large stock of finished porcelain ware was in the warehouse and the kilns held unfinished products. Because of the intense heat of the kilns which were left standing in the factory ruins it was impossible to ascertain the extent of damage to the kiln structures or their contents.

It was believed, however, that the kilns could be repaired without much expense. The boiler room was also saved from serious damage, it was reported.

Guards Gasoline Tanks

As the fire progressed, firemen and citizens guarded storage tanks of the Standard Oil Co. located near the porcelain plant and this precaution prevented spread of the flames which would have resulted in explosions and much more extensive damage.

The Carey Ohio Porcelain Co., which has been in operation here for a number of years, ranks as one of the leading en-

MARION AUTO IS HIT BY TRAIN AT MORRAL

Three Occupants Have Narrow Escape from Serious Injury

Three Marion persons narrowly escaped serious injury yesterday afternoon when the Ford coupe in which they were riding was struck by a Hocking Valley work train at Morral. Those in the car were Mrs. George H. Spragg, Delaware-av, her daughter Fern Spragg, and a nephew, Billy Wetzel.

The three were taking a pleasure ride and as they crossed the tracks at Morral the work train, moving at a slow rate of speed, struck the car, breaking one rear wheel and mashing a fender.

Mrs. Spragg stated this morning that a boxcar shunted near the crossing prevented them from seeing the approaching train.

Hit Telephone Pole

Two others were injured last night when their Ford sedan crashed into a telephone pole on the Claridon-pk. The driver is said to have been blinded by the headlights of an approaching car. The top, the left door and the windshield were mashed.

The two occupants of the car were cut by flying glass from the windshield.

According to records at the Marion Automobile Club the car belonged to Paul H. Naber, R. D. 2, Prospect. The license number was 96-066. The wrecked machine was brought to the Albert Bros., garage here for repairs.

26 AWAIT ACTION OF GRAND JURY FOR RIOTS

St. Clairsville, April 20—Thirty-six men and five women, arrested when they marched on the Shadyside Coal Co. mine, near Bridgeport, last Monday, under the banner of "Save the Union," were today awaiting action by the county grand jury, under $1,000 bond each. Two other men, alleged leaders in the march, are under $1,500 bond.

Prosecutor P. V. Waddell filed charges of rioting and the alleged offenders were arraigned before Squire Brady Bradfield yesterday. A preliminary hearing is to be held next Wednesday.

PLANE HITS MOUNTAIN

Madrid, April 20—Ten persons are in the hospital at Zaragoza today suffering from injuries received when a passenger-carrying airplane of the Madrid-Barcelona line crashed into a mountain near Valley Penedes.

Lighthouse Keeper and Family Amazed When Aviators Drop Down Upon Them

QUEBEC, Que., April 20—Johnny Le Templier is the keeper of the now famous lighthouse at Greenely Island.

Johnny, his wife and their five small children get very few visitors during the long winter months and those that do come, arrive by dog-sled or on snow-shoes.

So to say the Le Templiers and their brood were amazed when they heard the hum of the Bremen's motor overhead last Friday, would be putting it mildly to say the least.

When he saw the plane alight on the ice of the island's reservoir and crash through as it came to a halt, the lighthouse keeper rushed toward it in time to see two of its occupants extricating a third from the ice through which he had fallen.

JOHNNY LE TEMPLIER

Le Templier receives newspapers only rarely and he had no idea that the aviators had just completed a transatlantic flight. Being a French-Canadian, Le Templier speaks only French and couldn't understand the German of Captain Koehl and Baron Von Huenefeld, or the English of Major Fitzmaurice.

But he gesticulated to them in a friendly manner and invited them to his house. There he offered a change in footwear to the aliens, who had fallen through the ice, and offered them food.

The fliers soon became chummy with the children, who had been afraid to go near the plane, never having seen one before.

During the exciting days that followed Johnny and his family became fast friends with the fliers.

SPEECH GIVEN BY MARION STUDENT

Edwin King Presents Name of Dawes to Mock Convention at O. S. U.

Columbus, April 20—The nomination speech for Charles G. Dawes, who was named as first choice for president in the student mock political convention held at Ohio State University this week, was made by Edwin King, of Marion, who was representing the Illinois delegation.

Dawes, considered a "dark horse" in the convention, was nominated in the seventh ballot following the break of the deadlock between Al Smith and Herbert Hoover delegates.

Kappa Delta Rho fraternity, of which King is a member, represented the state of Illinois in the convention. Other fraternities and sororities on the Ohio State campus were assigned to the various states and territories of the United States.

Harold Wilson, also of Marion, and a member of Kappa Delta Rho, was one of the Illinois delegates.

Delaware, O., April 20—Observing the seventy-fifth anniversary of its founding the Ohio Wesleyan chapter of Beta Theta Pi fraternity will hold a banquet here Friday night. The occasion will also serve to celebrate the seventy-fifth anniversary of the introduction of fraternities at Ohio Wesleyan, Beta being the first fraternity to be established here.

Francis W. Shepardson, Chicago, president of Beta Theta Pi, and Willis O. Robb, New York, a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan and former president of Beta Theta Pi, are included in the list of speakers. Walter A. Jones, Columbus, president of the Ohio Wesleyan board of trustees, will officially represent the university.

George B. Harris, Cleveland, will preside as toastmaster, and other speakers will be Robert H. Jamison, Cleveland, and Paul T. Mahon, Kenton.

DAUGHERTY FINED

Mine President Reported in Altercation with Worker

Athens, April 20—Reports that Oral Daugherty militant young president of Hocking Valley miners, was fined $5 in a minor court at Glouster, where he pleaded guilty to striking Milton Sands, union miner of Trimble Township, were receiving wide comment in the valley today.

Sands, it is said, was circulating a petition asking the removal of Daugherty for his statements in a speech at Glouster a week ago when he told union miners that they must leave the valley and go to work in other lines, remain here and starve, or go back to work in the mines on any wage basis they could negotiate with the operators.

Daugherty, it is reported, came into the court at Glouster last night informed the magistrate, Mayor Hugh Gormely, that he had had an altercation with Sands and had hit him. The fine was then imposed and paid, according to the report.

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS, GIRLS IN CONTEST

Gather at Ohio Wesleyan for Competition; Scholarship Prizes Given

Delaware, April 20—High school boys and girls from all parts of Ohio are gathering here today for the state high school extempore speaking and literary interpretation contests held annually at Ohio Wesleyan University here by the Department of Oratory.

Preliminary competitions in both contests will be completed late this afternoon. The contestants will be entertained tonight as the university's guests at the presentation of "The Butter and Egg Man" by Ohio Wesleyan classes in play production.

The final literary interpretation contest will be held Saturday afternoon and the final in the extempore speaking contest Saturday night.

Scholarship prizes totalling $465 and a silver loving cup indicative of the state high school championship are at stake in the extempore speaking contest. Students entered in the literary interpretation contest are competing for a silver loving cup which will go to the high school winning first place and for individual medals which will be awarded to the individuals winning the first three places.

PROTECTION THERE

Adjutant General Henderson Reviews Militia in Village

St. Clairsville, April 20—The first autos, the donors of the beautiful floral National Guard in this section was put on late yesterday when Adjutant General Henderson of Columbus reviewed a company of militiamen in the town's principal streets, and the move was widely-discussed here today.

General Henderson said the parade had no significance other than to let the county know that ample protection exists in case of an emergency. The guardsmen have been stationed here since the state undertook relief work among miners' children.

The troops were armed with rifles and drilled in front of the courthouse. It was not generally known, before yesterday, that the company was armed.

JACOBY ON FARM MEETING PROGRAM

Marion Man Included Among Speakers at Realtors' Conference, May 9

W. Jacoby, local attorney and ... will be one of the speakers at ... conference of farm land real ... held at the Neil House, Co... on May 9, according to an an... ment made today by C. C. Mar... quardt, Tiffin, president ... Farm Lands Division of the ... Association of Real Estate Boards.

One of the headliners ... program in an address by Earl D. Rose, newly appointed state secretary ... commerce.

The meeting is open to ... farm land dealers in the state ... wish to attend. The program as ... by the executive committee of ... division is as follows: "Cooperative Advertising," J. S. Waters, Mansfield; "Bringing About Needed Legislative Reforms," John E. McCrehen, Columbus; "The Farmer Versus the City Man," J. E. Miller, Geneva.

A state conference of this nature has been an annual affair with the Farm Lands Division for a number of years and a large attendance is expected at the meeting.

Officers and directors of the division are Charles C. Marquardt, Tiffin, president, L. C. Hopkins, Cincinnati, vice president; J. C. Hobbs, Tiffin, secretary-treasurer; Jesson Warner and John H. Williamson, Findlay.

FAKE AUTO CLUBS OBJECT OF ATTACK

Local Office Notified of Drive Against Questionable Organizations

Better Business Bureaus in many of the larger cities of the state have linked forces with the American Automobile Association in a war on questionable and fake automobile clubs, according to a communication received by the Marion Auto Club today. In an address on "Fake Automobile Clubs," broadcast by the Better Business Bureau of Columbus recently it was declared by the speaker that many of the cities of the state have these organizations.

"The National Better Business Bureau in New York and 40 odd local bureaus over the country have for several years been watching carefully and waging war, where it was necessary, against many of these so-called Automobile Associations," the speaker declared in his radio talk. "These concerns are prompted under various guises, such as protective and co-operative associations, alleged insurance schemes, trail organizations, touring camps, etc."

"The Ohio State Automobile Association and the American Automobile Association, have repeatedly issued warnings to the public and their members against joining any of these associations before complete investigations have been made. They say some of these concerns operate just within the law and get by. Others are absolutely fraudulent but manage to exist for a while and after collecting a considerable sum of money, by the high pressure methods used by glib tongued salesmen, fold their tents and fly away."

LOCAL ACCOUNTANTS TO ATTEND MEETING

Nine from Here To Be Guests at Dinner Program in Columbus

Eight representatives of the cost and accounting departments of the Marion Steam Shovel Co. and C. W. Wood, certified public accountant, will be in attendance at the regular monthly meeting of the Columbus Chapter of the National Association of Cost Accountants at the Chittenden Hotel, Monday night, April 23, after dinner at 6:30.

Steam Shovel representatives will include U. A. Nystrom, H. E. Hastings, F. A. Boland, E. L. Cleveland, H. L. Gabbert, C. W. Snyder, W. H. Rinehart and Paul Piersol.

Dr. Stuart G. McLeod of New York City, secretary of the National Association, will be one of the speakers. W. M. Monroe, treasurer of the Iuland Manufacturing Co. at Dayton and vice president of the Dayton Chapter, will speak on the subject, "Incentives for Executives," and W. E. Royce, supervising cost accountant of the Fisher Body Co. at Cleveland, will talk on "Centralizing Labor Costs."

The meeting is open to guests, reservations to be made through J. B. Mockert, head of the department of accounting at Ohio State University.

UPPER SANDUSKY SCHOOL ORGANIZES SECOND BAND

Upper Sandusky, April 20—An order was sent yesterday by W. O. Moore, superintendent of schools for a large number of band instruments for the fitting out of a second band. The present band, organized two years ago under T. R. Evans, has become so advanced in its work that it is necessary to organize a beginners' group. The present band now numbers 35 members.

SAYS IT WITH FISTS

A punch in the nose was the reply made by Deputy Andre Mieliet to Andre Tardieu, French Minister of Public Works, in an electoral debate in France. The minister suffered broken glasses, a bloody nose, but immediately continued his speech.

CLUB PROGRAM

Galion Singer Takes Part in Entertainment at Federation Convention

Galion, April 20—Mrs. Jud V. Dye, soprano, of this city, contributed a special number to the program at the press breakfast held at the Argonne Hotel, Lima, Wednesday morning. The banquet was one of a series of affairs planned for the convention of the Ohio Federation of Women's Clubs, being held in Lima. Mrs. Dye sang a request number, "The Awakening," by Strauss, with Miss Leona Felty of Lima as accompanist. Another local club leader, Mrs. Earl B. Padgett, was honored at the annual meeting by election to the office of president of the ninth north district of the Federation.

METHODIST SOCIETIES HOLD MEETINGS TODAY

Galion, April 20—Church day services were held at the First Methodist Church yesterday with a number of organizations holding meetings. The missionary society and the session of the General Aid were two of most importance. Dinner was served by members of the Aid Society and a large number of church members and visitors.

CLUB MEMBERS MEET

Cares, April 20—Mrs. Tarry Turnbell and Miss Cleo Sawyer entertained the Bridge Club Wednesday evening at the home of Mrs. Turnbell, E. Findlay-st. After an evening of bridge the hostesses served refreshments. Mrs. H. R. Keller and Mrs. James Rigg were guests of the club.

Of course, even right here in the very heart of the garden spot of the world we may experience a somewhat cool bit of weather, at times, but, as they always say out in California, it's exceptional.

Since reading how Walter B. Mays is expending $75,000 to pay all the cost of transporting sixty-three friends from Pittsburgh to Paris, where he and Mrs. Mays plan to celebrate their silver wedding, we've been trying to think what paper Walter serves as a hard-working spreader of joy and sunshine in paragraphs.

Ability Sadly Misapplied.

Although the new Lloyd Sabaudo liner, Conte Grande, had been alongside her pier in New York since last Friday, and had twice been searched by customs officers, it was not until Tuesday that a stowaway, Vincenzo Basti, twenty-nine years of age, an interior decorator of Trieste, was arrested as he attempted to go ashore and taken to Ellis island to be held for deportation.

The New York City papers, in telling the story of Basti's arrest, related that he had worked for four months on the liner for the builders at Monte Faucone, near Trieste, and that while thus engaged had built for himself a snug secret cabin in an alcove near the after first-class companionway and fitted it with every comfort, including bed, washstand, bookcase, small table, chair, electric light, ventilator and carpet. He even supplied his retreat with wines, brandy, mineral waters, food and fruit.

Entrance was by a sliding panel, so skilfully concealed that it escaped the eyes of a special searching squad. The young Italian decorator had provided for every contingency except that of getting off the liner in New York without being detected by the watchmen at the gangways.

Basti will be put aboard the Conte Grande tomorrow before she sails and be taken back to Genoa, where he will face arrest as a stowaway.

We do not know, of course, what conditions faced this stowaway over in Italy, but we can not help but feel that had he applied to the purpose anything like the initiative, the persistence, the time and the labor, he gave to his attempt to enter this country in an illegitimate way, he could have entered it in a legal way. Certainly a man, who, in addition to being the fine interior decorator the work upon which he was engaged shows him to have been, was also a plumber and an electrician and a sufficiently fine carpenter to construct a sliding panel of such workmanship as to escape the scrutiny of the ship's officers and the customs people, should have been able to earn enough beyond the cost of his living to meet the very trifling cost of the cheapest passage from Italy to this country.

But such is life. Often half the time and effort people devote to trickery would bring them success if applied in a legitimate way.

The Debt That Must Be Paid.

Men and women of Ohio will go to the next Tuesday to participate in the presidential preference primary—to select delegates to attend the Republican national convention at Kansas City.

It is of the utmost importance that every man and woman legally entitled to vote exercise his or her franchise, it is of the utmost importance for two reasons: First, because there is a most unusual situation in Ohio Republican circles at this time, and second, because it is absolutely essential that an unrestricted, unpledged, open-minded delegation be sent to Kansas City.

Senator Frank B. Willis is dead, but his name will appear on every ballot at the presidential preference primary, and beneath his name there will appear the names of delegates who were pledged to his candidacy as Ohio's favorite son for the presidential nomination.

In the eighth congressional district there is a full ticket of delegates and alternates to be voted upon. Willis delegates and alternates—as well as the delegates at-large. It is imperative that no mistake be made by the voters and that they appreciate what they are doing at the polls.

A vote for the Willis delegates and alternates, and the Willis delegates at-large is a vote for an unhampered delegation of fifty-one from Ohio to the Republican convention—a vote for a delegation pledged to no man or no clique, but pledged to the voters of Ohio to exercise their collective judgment in the interests of the best available material presented for the nomination as the Republican choice for president.

And if the Republican convention, over which Senator Simeon D. Fess, of Ohio—Senator Willis' colleague in the United States senate—will preside as temporary chairman and keynote speaker, exercises the judgment it normally exercises, and is not stampeded by ballyhoo for this candidate or that candidate, but nominates the man best fitted for the job, the Republican nomination in June is tantamount to election in November.

In the Eighth district it is more important that the regular Willis delegates and alternates and the candidates for delegates-at-large be swept into the places they seek, for if they are it will add that much strength to the entire Willis delegation when it reaches Kansas City and begins functioning as an uninstructed, unpledged unit.

The problem now is not who will receive the convention endorsement, inasmuch as Senator Willis will not be there to carry on the fight for himself. The problem now is to send to Kansas City a delegation pledged to no man—just as the Pennsylvania and the Massachusetts electorates will do when they go to the polls at their presidential preference primaries next Tuesday.

The candidates for delegates-at-large at Tuesday's primary are Senator Simeon D. Fess, Carmi A. Thompson, A. Lee Beatty, E. W. Edwards, Mrs. Wilma Sinclair LeVan, Fred W. Warner and Edward Vollrath.

The Willis candidates from the Eighth district are Ralph D. Cole, of Findlay, and Benjamin R. Connors, of Ada, delegates; and John H. Clark, of Marion, and James R. Hopley, of Bucyrus, alternates.

It is traditional in Ohio Republican circles that the favorite son gets the undivided support of all Republicans. That was the case with Warren G. Harding, with William McKinley, and Rutherford B. Hayes, William Howard Taft, Benjamin Harrison, James A. Garfield and Ulysses S. Grant—all stalwart Republicans and all natives of Ohio—the "Mother of Presidents."

Canada's population is now estimated to be 9,519,000. If the Canadian estimates are as liberal as those made of municipal populations down here two or three years before each decennial census, we may figure that the "Lady of the Snows" has at least six or seven million people.

For the past seven years cigaret sales have shown an annual increase of 12½ per cent., and during the first two months of the present year the increased consumption over the corresponding months of last year was 2,333,000,000, indicating a total consumption for the year of 111,000,000,000. The girls must be doing a lot of puffing when we aren't looking.

The Passing of Bad Paper.

There is little occasion for surprise over the fact that another batch of forged checks—the number, as we understand it, was twenty—was uttered in this city over the past week-end. It was to have been expected. Several months ago we stated in these columns that the uttering of bad checks might be anticipated with increasing frequency unless action were taken to punish the passers, and we say now that we may look for such incidents to continue unless punishment is administered to those who are profiting by them.

We do not know what the feeling of the victims of the last lot of forgeries may be, but the trouble in the past has been that those, or the most of them, who gave up good money for forged or other bad paper, were far more interested in having their monetary loss made good than they were in prosecuting the utterers of the bad paper. They preferred to recover their money and not prosecute than to prosecute and lose their money. If there is question of this, let us ask how many convictions there have been to the number of cases where checks have been drawn on banks in which those drawing them had no funds and in many cases where they never had any funds?

So long as the utterers of bad paper can escape punishment by making good the losses sustained by their victims through the cashing of such bad paper, the uttering of bad paper is bound to continue, if not increase. Those passing such bad checks or other papers, under the conditions cited, have nothing to lose and a goodly amount of cash to gain. Not only that, but their immunity from punishment prompts others to follow their example.

We may be wrong in our view, but it has long seemed to us that compounding a felony is a rather poor way to go about discouraging crime.

Ways To Avoid Bronchitis.

BY DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

This is the time of year when colds are common. If the catarrhal condition did not extend beyond the nose, it would not be particularly serious. Unfortunately, it does not spend its efforts in an attack upon the nasal tubes. Too many times it goes down into the bronchial tubes.

When this happens we are dealing with a disease called bronchitis. It is an unwelcome affliction. In the acute form it may run its course in a few days, or it may become chronic, lingering on for months.

In children, adenoids and diseased tonsils have much to do with its occurrence. In some adults there seems to be a peculiar lack of resistance to it. Anything lowering the general health prepares the way for an attack of bronchitis. Among the things which bring on the attacks are colds, infectious diseases, exposure to chilling and contaminated atmosphere, any upset in digestion, and other debilitating things.

Bronchitis is a common accompaniment of measles, scarlet fever, whooping cough, influenza and other infections. It frequently follows pleurisy.

The chronic form is more common in persons past middle life. The attacks may occur at stated intervals each year. The conditions of city life—smoke, bad air, indoor life late hours, predispose to it. An uneven temperature is a contributing factor.

Whether chronic or acute, bronchitis is characterized by paroxysmal attacks of coughing and the expectoration of mucus. Sometimes this is streaked with blood.

There is always difficult breathing and "rales." This is the word doctors use to describe the rattling sound in the chest familiar to everybody who has come in contact with a case of bronchitis.

Science has not yet discovered anything that will prevent recurrences of the attacks in those who are susceptible to the disease. Uncomfortable as the attacks are to the sufferer, and alarming as they sometimes appear to the observer, there is usually little danger from them.

The best way to avoid bronchitis is to keep the general health in good condition. Overcome constipation, if it is present—as it nearly always is in this condition. Eat simple food and take your meals regularly. Live in as even a temperature as possible. Avoid chilling and overheating dust, smoke and bad air. Take regular exercise, sleep with open windows, and above all, so far as it is possible, live in the sunshine and fresh air.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES

L. K. H. Q—My right eye seems dry at night, the lid inflamed, and the white discolored. What would you advise?

2—What would cause the entire left side to become numb while walking?

3—While asleep I clinch the jaws so tightly that the leaders and muscles in the neck are sore. What causes this?

A—It would be best to have the eye examined. In the meantime, bathing it with a warm solution of boracic acid several times daily should give relief.

2—Probably due to a circulatory disturbance. have the heart examined as a precautionary measure and build up the health in general. For further particulars send a self-addressed, stamped envelope and repeat your question.

3—Nervousness would cause the clinching. Be sure there is no underlying cause for the former symptom.

Editorial Opinion.

TOO OLD, SAID MR. HUGHES.

Age, like youth, is no crime, but in some circumstances either may be a misfortune.

Extreme age in the White House is apt to be a misfortune. It is one, however, that the people of the United States have visited on themselves—and the occupant of the White House—only a few times.

Examinations of the record reveals this in striking fashion, but it appears that some present candidates for the presidency have not made such an examination. One apparently has. This is Charles Evans Hughes.

"I am too old," said Mr. Hughes.

If Mr. Hughes were elected president he would be sixty-six years old when inaugurated and, if he served the eight years that most presidents anticipate, he would be seventy-four years old when he retired.

Of the other candidates prominent in the race, Mr. Lowden would be sixty-eight when inaugurated and seventy-six when retired; Senator Curtis, sixty-eight and seventy-six, Vice President Dawes, sixty-three and seventy-one, Senator Watson, sixty-four and seventy-two. Herbert Hoover would be fifty-four when inaugurated and sixty-two when retired.

Now what does the record reveal? It shows that in all our history only three presidents have been inaugurated at an age exceeding sixty-one years. Of these, Zachary Taylor, sixty-four, died within a year, and William Henry Harrison, sixty-eight, died within a month. James Buchanan, sixty-five, failed of renomination.

The instinct of the American people in this matter seems to be sound.

Regardless of the native ability of the present candidates and regardless of their present vigor and strength, it hardly would seem the part of wisdom to fly in the face of so clear a precedent this year of 1928. Eight years in the White House is a cruelly long time for the youngest and most robust of presidents. The strain of responsibility is too great for any except the strongest of men.

"I am too old," said Mr. Hughes. He said it with a smile, but he hasn't retracted the statement, and he is not likely to do so. For it is one of the wisest statements ever made by the former secretary of state and justice of the United States supreme court.—Columbus Citizen.

Poems That Live.

BENEDICTIONS.

In Phrygia once when Midas was the king,
Blessed angels over-hovered,
They gave to him that angels bring,
His lightest touch everything to gold!
Straightway Midas, his garden wold,
And touched the flowering made his daughter sing.
The changed now songless old,
His arms about her changed to cling
A tearful statue cold!
King Midas saw He loaned afar,
The only thought a maid would hold
Was of a maiden as a star!
Everywhere his feet touch the ground
Some gold today, stopped

What Blew Up?

BY GARRETT P. SERVISS.

The bulletins of the Harvard Astronomical observatory some time ago contained an interesting series of notes and observations on meteors and fireballs. Dr. Willard J. Fisher of the observatory, has organized what perhaps will be a campaign for more knowledge about these objects, in which the interested public is invited to participate, provided the participants will observe certain necessary precautions about giving time, and observation, direction of motion, etc., which experts about meteors are generally very anxious to use. As he points out, prime necessity is that the public should have a widespread knowledge of the constellations or the geography of the heavens—a knowledge not difficult to gain and the gaining of which affords great pleasure while it stands in possession of such simple knowledge as a true cosmopolite.

Seeing a bright fireball is a very memorable experience, and recording apparent paths pursued through the heavens, and the associated phenomena presented by it, is doing a valuable service to the science of astronomy.

On August 10 last a real shower of fireballs flew over southern New England, but nobody would have known of its occurrence but for a request circulated through the newspapers by Dr. Fisher for chance observations of a bright meteor that had been seen at Bridgeport, Massachusetts, on that date. Within a few days 219 reports were received from observers scattered over an area extending from Nova Scotia to Maryland, and from Long Island to near Ottawa, Canada.

Study of the data furnished by these reports showed that the observers from their widespread points of observation had each seen a part of a shower of fireballs, "so sparse that any single observer would hardly see more than one, and distributed mostly over New England." The objects were brilliant, notable for green and blue colorations, for long tails which quickly vanished, for for numerous nearly horizontal courses.

For the evening about forty distinct meteors were reported, of which twenty-six, constituting the fireball shower, flashed into view within a few minutes of 8 p. m., Eastern standard time, all travelling in a more or less easterly direction. The probable ending points could be fixed in six cases. It was the night of the "August meteors," and some of the scattered objects seen no doubt belonged to that well-known "shower," the rush of fireballs happening to coincide with it.

It may be well to say that for convenience a distinction is made between meteors which belong to the class often called "shooting-stars," and the much more brilliant fireballs, which often greatly outshine the brightest stars and the largest planets. When a fireball succeeds in reaching the ground it is ranked as a meteorite, like the specimens to be seen in many large museums.

The origin of these objects is still buried in mystery. The fact that in form they are fragments instead of complete bodies is full of extraordinary suggestions as to their place and manner of origin. Dr. Fisher remarks that the iron meteorites are crystallographic fragments, while the stone-meteorites are fracture fragments. But as he says, "Fragmentation implies an original catastrophe—or more than one—the breaking up of some body or bodies." He expressly refrains from considering what such a catastrophe might have been, but adds, "that it was vast and violent; the great crystal irons and lesser but more frequent stones are witnesses."

Meteorites are not the only objects that seem to record the occurrence of some terrible explosion, or series of explosions, in ancient times, in interstellar or interplanetary space. The small planets, usually called asteroids, of which about a thousand have been discovered in the solor system, may be fragments of a blown-up planet.

The great mathematician, Gauss, suggested that origin long ago. For a while the theory was abandoned, but lately it has been revived upon the basis of later data.

But if the asteroids are parts of an exploded planet, what body by its violent disruption can have given birth to the meteorites, with their masses of solid nickel-iron? If, as some observations hint, these strange bodies enter the solar system from without, how can the imagination fail to be fired by the thought that they bring to us fragments of a former world whose final catastrophe came upon it under the light of some other sun than ours, thousands of millions of years ago?—Copyright, 1927, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, April 20 — Thoughts while strolling: Clarence Mackey looking into a Postal Telegraph window at Fifth avenue and Forty-Sixth street. The set expression of lifted faces. What's become of Mary Miller Minter? South Americans with gaucho hats and Napoleonic sideburns.

All the old Fifth avenue mansions in midtown are gone—save one. The exception is Helen Gould's home. Where grim dignity marked now glitter the tiffin temples the world over, cake castles, hat salons and the opulent facades of hotels. Charlie Journal the Montmartre head waiter.

Those chez places that spell it "Mauleverer" Mencken with a leather briefcase. Pigeon birds fluttering in the Plaza fountain. A woman wheeling a baby carriage and reading "Oliver Twist." Upstairs art shops that never seem to have a customer. Ruth Reed of Harper's. Wonder how "The Ladder" revision is coming along?

The shabby genteel who sit on the benches along the park wall. Dogs with their names embroidered on blankets. Butlers with horse white celluloid Ascot ties. Magnificent apartment houses known only by numbers. And never showing anything so vulgar as a sign.

The red-bricked Andrew Carnegie home with high iron fence. And the barred windows in the Otto Kahn home. And a few steps away the upper Fifth avenue Ghetto with its pushcart jabber. Bearded patriarchs who sit in doorways reading the Talmud. Salt rising bread.

Barber shops with radios. Mexican cafes featuring enchiladas, conjuevas, tortillas and frijoles. And outside tables where they play cubito and dominoes. Licorice water hokey-pokey. Parboiled and salted watermelon seeds. And two street organs to a block.

Cinemas with wild west posters. Red cabbage soup—three cents a bowl. An atheist hotgospeling from a soap box. But there is around the Salvation army speakers. Gaping doorways. Harridens. The smell of poverty.

On upper Fifth avenue the children play a game called "Chucko," a variant of "Buster." It is highly disrespectful of age. They have a jackpot in which they put pennies and then roam the sidewalks in packs. When they see a white beard they scamper toward it and then first to chuck the owner under the chin and cry "Chucko" wins the pot.

Three men of Broadway in that many years have violated a code Broadway strictly observes and gone quietly into oblivion. They struck women. For a street that lives so loosely this unpardonable sin is a little difficult to grasp. Yet it is unfailing in its thumbs down attitude.

All three violators were more or less prominent when they forgot themselves and indulged cave man tactics. Men have lived off women without Broadway lifting a supercilious eyelid. They have publicly blasphemed them. They have led them to dishonor and taunted them to self-destruction and have been suffered accepted by their fellows. But when a hand has been lifted, that has been something else again and Broadway drops them like the proverbial hot cakes.

They become social pariahs, snubbed wherever they go — outcasts among the panderers, gigolos and such. No matter how low a man may fall in the social scale he still has a chance in the Broadway fellowship if he has never smacked a lady.

But if a woman strikes a man in the Broadway circles that becomes the inspiration for a lusty cheer. A dawn in a night club is nothing to stay up about unless some gentleman receives a moused optic as the result of being on the business end of a lady's wallop. And the sympathy he gets is a hearty laugh and cries of, "Sock him again."

The Way of the World.

One reads that the New York State Federation of Labor has been called upon by its leaders to support Governor Smith for president. And one may read somewhere else that organized labor in another state is going to be for some other candidate. The fact is that nobody, whether he is the president of a union or a walking delegate or anybody else, can deliver the labor vote. There is no such thing as the labor vote. Men who are members of unions, and men who are not members of unions—organized and unorganized workingmen—are just like other free and independent citizens of America. They will make up their own minds and vote as they please.

Count Keyserling, hailed as an authority on woman and marriage, visits this country. He is full of ideas, or at least says he is. He says men need to drink coffee—even wine. They need to be stimulated, he says. Women do not need to be stimulated, according to the count. They are just naturally stimulated and stimulating.

And as for eating and drinking, man is more interested in that than woman, anyway. As famous chefs are men, despite the tradition that cooking is the art of women.

Whenever there is a larger number of unemployed men and women than usual there is the old talk about what the machines have done to the working man. But that is silly, unthinkable talk. It is true that much of the work that it used to require a dozen men to perform is now done by a single machine. The fact remains that this increased production by less man power has resulted in cheap and widely-distributed products and the demand has been so enormously increased that the number of men employed has grown constantly greater. The new machinery which has characterized this period of our civilization has been as great a boon to the workingman as to anybody else.

The small business man is having his troubles because of chain competition. Groups of stores, or groups of other kinds of business can be run more cheaply per unit than a single business. This calls for brains and ingenuity on the part of the small independent business man. Few successes are easy. There are times when the extra effort of intelligence and enlightenment is called for. That's the time not to get discouraged.

"Dark Horse" Is Nominee In State Mock Convention

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

COLUMBUS, April 20—That college students do know their politics is the general consensus of opinion that has cropped out of the results of the student mock political convention held at Ohio State University this week.

Taking on the air of the conventions of the two major political parties, student organizations supporting nine candidates for the presidency battled back and forth among the leaders and after seven ballots had been taken decided by a majority vote to harmonize on a "dark horse" candidate which happened in this case to be Charles G. Dawes, Republican.

Politics in the student convention held under the platform of the Great American Party did not, however, intervene in the selection of a candidate as the student's choice for the presidency. Governor Al Smith and Herbert Hoover, along with Charles E. Hughes and Will Rogers, present congressman-at-large, played important roles in the early balloting but owing to the divided vote, not strong enough for a majority for any of the candidates, after holding stubbornly and faithfully to their first choices, submitted to the will of "Hoji and Marie."

In the nominating speeches, students who give promise of influential political supporters in the future, held the convention delegates in sway before the balloting began.

It was left to a woman student, however, to nominate the only woman candidate in the convention, Judge Florence Allen of Ohio. Growing disgusted at the flowery language of the other nominaters, Winifred Warner, of Columbus, hurled a question at the convention assembly in favor of women presidents which was left unanswered. It was: "Did you ever see an angel with a beard?" Needless to say she won her point with the convention.

By standards of a platform drawn up by Phi Delta Gamma, legal fraternity in charge of the convention, the convention delegates announced themselves in favor of the Volstead Act, the World Court and the independence of the Philippines and against compulsory military training in universities and colleges.

CHURCH BUILDING WELL UNDER WAY

Rapid Progress Made with New Christian Science Edifice

With the steel construction for the first floor and basement completed, work on the new edifice of the First Church of Christ Scientist, at E. Church-st and Mt. Vernon-av, is progressing rapidly.

A large part of the dressed sandstone of which the building is to be constructed, has arrived and a portion of the north wall has been erected. Constructed of large tablets of smooth white stone with dark mortar, the building will be of a different type than any in the city and promises to be one of exceptional beauty.

The building will face the west and broad steps leading to the entrance will be approached by walks from both Mt. Vernon-av and Church-st. Favored by good weather it is expected the building will be completed by early in the fall. Crock & McPeck are the contractors in charge.

ADVANCED SIX SEDAN $1425 f.o.b. factory
SPECIAL SIX SEDAN $1213 f.o.b. factory

Uphill—Extra power!
Downhill—Better brakes!

for safer, more delightful travel

The illustrations of the Nash Advanced Six and Special Six Sedans, shown above, point out two very great advantages which belong to everyone who drives the Nash.

For climbing hills, going around other cars, getting away in front at a traffic start, Nash has extra power and greater flexibility, produced by the highly perfected, precision balanced, Nash 7-bearing motor, and the equally famous Nash straight line drive.

Coming down hills, driving in traffic, meeting a sudden emergency—Nash 2-way 4-wheel brakes surround Nash owners with exceptional safety. And they also require the minimum of attention and adjustment, because of their 2-way and fully equalized design.

The extra power and extra safety of Nash travel cost you nothing, as you will discover if you compare Nash prices to the prices asked for other cars. Nash leads the world in motor car value!

The Chatter Box

Another one of those deceptive spring days—bright and sunshiny—but such a sharpness to the wind. Just the day for a smart spring coat, of course. And a bright scarf goes well with it, too.

Now that we're talking of spring, have you started your garden yet? I have mine all planned, now—or, well, just about planned. I want a combination that will give me plenty of bright blooming plants all summer—and that takes careful figuring. In fact I never would have got it worked out if it hadn't been for the help I got at Blake's. Better ask their advice on your gardening, too—you'll find it a big help.

* * *

These windy days are hard on curls—especially when the winds have a touch of rain in them. It takes plenty of waves in the spring, somehow. I've found the finger waves they give at Stuckert's last longest and look best. That's the beauty shop in the Harding Hotel, you remember.

* * *

Have you had that new photo made yet? I've mentioned it before, but I can't help repeating my tip on the fancy sets and backgrounds at the Master Studio. It isn't every one who can give you a Hollywood background right here in Marion. Try them for your next one.

I saw some awfully smart new shoes down at Smart & Waddell's today. Shoes have such intriguing color schemes these days. These are Arch-Preserver models—you know, the comfortable kind. They come in tan and rose beige, both extra good this season. And comfort—and wear, too, from all I can learn from my friends who have been using them longer than I have.

* * *

Somehow this spring weather makes one want to dance—just informally—at home for instance, without going to all the bother of a regular ball. And you can do it now, so easily. Some of the new orchestra records will set most anyone to stepping. They have them all at Ackerman's—the store with the white Victor dog in the doorway. Ask to hear them when you're downtown again.

Lennon's still has the display of floor lamps I spoke of not long ago—and table lamps, too—with bright shades. But I just thought of a real need for another one. How many times haven't you wanted a lamp for your porch—something that would give light enough without the bright glare of the full porch light? Well, here's just the thing—and really attractive, too.

* * *

The Oakland Grill is still just as attractive to me as ever. One can really get such a nice lunch out there—their sodas are delicious, too. It's near enough downtown to be easy to reach, and far enough out to make you sure of a parking space. And really—everybody goes there.

* * *

Several times, now, I've mentioned printed silks but I just must call your attention to them again. They are so good this year. Whether you buy your dresses or have them made you can have most of these lovely patterns.

Ubler-Phillips have some beautiful new yard goods in silk prints at $2.98—you'll be sure to want some if you see them.

You can save yourself a whole lovely spring Sunday afternoon if you'll take a tip from me. I found it out last Sunday. Here's the tip—Turoff's. A really good Sunday dinner there will save hours of bother and work at home—and it's so nice to be able to get out-doors and just play these nice week-ends.

* * *

Have you thought about furs for summer? Looks as though they'll be just as good this year as they have been—or maybe even better. There are some wonderful bargains in them just now, too, if one knows where to look.

Sincerely,
Jeanne Arden

A Sequel to "Revelations of a Wife"

Romances Engage Attention of Madge and Lillian

"WHAT'S the matter, old dear? You look about as happy as a dray horse working counting out stamps? Did Phil say something upsetting to your mental digestion?"

Lillian's bantering voice effectively shut me out of the unpleasant conversation into which Philip Vertizen's apparently careless reference to some woman he loved had sent me.

"Nothing that mattered to me, per-haps," I prevaricated. "But he told me a most astounding tale which, with your consent plans on his part, has me flabbergasted—and upset.

"I'm under the seal of secrecy?"

"I'm not sure not, to you," I returned. "He said that he did not wish you to know when he told he a certain tale of his youth because he feared your censure, but that was the only objection he voiced. I do not care what others think. I am going to tell you the story anyway."

"I should draw it out by slow torture if you didn't," she said. "It must have been a weighty confession judging by the time he took in making it. I should be went out of here as if were obsessed for time as that hoary old cliché of the simile quoters, the once proverbial paperhanger. So spill all your woes and guess. You'll just have time before dinner; while you and Phil were talking, Katie asked me if we could dine early as long as Dicky and his mother were not going to be here. There's an especial thriller on at the movies, so I took the chance to approve and gave her permission to feed the menagerie early".

"Of course," I assented, and when she had made herself comfortable in an easy chair opposite me, I told her every word I could remember of my startling interview with Philip Vertizen. She made no comment whatever until I had finished, then she sprang to her feet and began to pace up and down the room.

"Well! Who'd have thunk it of our Phil?" she said, with her usual trick of paraphrasing any amazement or emotion she may feel. "Carrying a secret like that around with him all these years. And what a bit for Broadway! But it will never reach them, for even if Phil puts off his unholy marriage stunt he promised, he'll never spill the truth about his birth."

"I'm glad you agree with me that it is unholy," I commented.

"You never heard me say anything else," she retorted. "I'll admit it's going to take some skill to unscramble all the eggs now in the frying pan, what with Princess Olina imagining herself in love with Noel, and Prince Georges daffy about Mary, while our two youngsters don't know just where they're at. One thing I'm glad of, Mary doesn't know Georges' rank. There's a certain glamour about a prince, you know to a girl of her age."

I nodded soberly, for I did not see just how the unscrambling of which she spoke could be managed in the face of Philip Vertizen's powerful influence.

"Don't worry over that part of it now," Lillian admonished sharply. "We have all the time in the world to lay plans for the solving of the two 'international romances,' as the society reporters used to call them. Just now we've got something far more important on our hands. Thank heaven, Phil's attending to the safe-guarding of Olina and I'll put Dicky wise to the fact that a little precaution around the farmhouse might not be a bad thing. Of course, you cannot tell him this Vertizen angle of Olina's story, for while Phil probably was willing for me, his oldest friend, to hear it, he certainly wouldn't want Dicky, of all people to make merry over it, as he surely would do. The Dicky-bird doesn't deserve much confidence anyway. He certainly has doubled for a clam on the subject of that red-bearded man in the shack. But don't you think we'd better tell him that we know Eleanor Lincoln is really the Princess Olina?"

"He probably knows it anyway," I said, not troubling to conceal my resentment at Dicky's continued and ostentatious parade of some jest with

'The Understanding Heart'

A Story of the California Forests

BY PETER B. KYNE

(Copyright, 1926, Peter B. Kyne by arrangement with King Features Syndicate, Inc.)

CHAPTER 28

HE dismounted and took her hand in his courtly fashion. Then he stripped off his rubber slicker and drew it around her wet shoulders. "The telephone line went out early in the afternoon, and when I couldn't reach you I began to worry," he explained. "Reports brought in by a rider of the D D outfit, who are running cattle here this season, showed the fire was crossing the western end of Tantrum Meadow and crawling up on Bogus. I saw it was going to the ridge at the eastern end of Tantrum also and cut you off from Dogwood Flats in case you had to evacuate, so I flunked my job—and came for you. I knew you didn't have a horse, so I—"

"You quit the firing-line—for me, Tony?"

"Yes, Monica."

"That will cost you your ranger's shield, my friend. A ranger must not cease fighting fire while he can stand and see. Your first loyalty was to the service, Tony."

"To blazes with the service. The forest will grow again, but you——"

"You're a dear, Tony. Didn't you know I could take care of myself?"

"I couldn't chance that. If you had been pinched off on Bogus and burned—I wouldn't want to live, Monica. I don't know you very well—and yet it seems I do not have to. Yours is such an understanding heart, my dear. Your loyalty to that convict—the way you manhandled us all when we came for him—was superb.

"Women like you are so scarce in this sad world, my dear. Better to let a few thousand acres of brush and scrub timber burn than that a woman like you should perish before she has fulfilled her destiny."

Monica was still holding his hand, she squeezed it a little now and patted the back of it with her other hand. "You're a dear, Tony," she repeated, as if she addressed a little boy. "Have you been up to Bogus?"

"Yes. Sheriff Bentley and I rode up together. He was as badly worried over your safety as I was."

"And I've used him so very badly," Monica murmured.

"Yes, and if ever I saw a maniac it was Sheriff Bentley when he finished that five-mile hike over the Tantrum trail after you'd made his horse run away. It seems the confounded animal kept jogging along the trail a few yards ahead of him and wouldn't quite trust him. They arrived at my station together, and of all the language I ever listened to——"

"Perhaps that started the forest fire," Monica suggested innocently.

He shook his head. "We're all pretty well convinced that Bob Mason started it, to wipe out his trail, block his pursuers and keep all hands busy fighting fire while he continued on to the Mexico country."

"Ah Tony, you're not kind. Bob Mason didn't do that. He couldn't. It would be wicked—and Bob isn't wicked. He knows forest fires and how terrible they are sometimes. Bob will take his chances in the open with man or devil but—there is so much God in these trees, and you told me the hills were God's first temples. Bob Mason wouldn't outrage God!"

"A desperate man will do anything. He broke his word of honor when he escaped from the prison road gang."

Monica as silent under this charge which she could not defend, so she changed the conversation.

"Where is the sheriff?"

"Up at the lookout. When we got there we saw that the rain would save it, but you weren't there and your cabin had been stripped, so we knew you had evacuated. Bentley decided you'd moved your furniture down into that little meadow below the station. He was tired and hungry and so was his—or rather my—horse. When I left he was about to shake up some supper—we found bacon and flour and tea in the kitchen—and then pass the night in your barn.

"I left him there and rode straight up over Bogus looking for you. I had an idea you'd make for Dogwood Flats, and as I knew you'd find comfort and food there, I concluded I'd meet you coming on the ridge. I was half crazy with the thought of you alone in the dark, wandering through the white-fir and scrub timber, cold, wet, hungry and exhausted.

"I scoured the south edge of the ridge as far east as I dared go, and then rode back along the north rim. Down here I saw your camp-fire winking and, on the off chance that I'd find you, I came down. Devil of a job until I found the trail, then I followed it and circled back through the grasslands."

Monica Dale bent and kissed his hand. "Such a dear Tony," she murmured huskily. "There are so few to care what happens to Monica Dale. Did you, by any chance, meet Uncle Charley Canfield on Bogus?"

"I wouldn't know him if I met him, Monica. But we shouted around the lookout for quite a while and nobody answered us. We didn't meet anybody there."

Monica's heart ceased its wild thumping. Wise old Uncle Charley! Trust him not to answer their shouting until he had first satisfied himself that it was safe to do so. Trust Uncle Charley to protect his old friend and neighbor from unwelcome surprises.

In the darkness, on the other side of the tree, Baldy stirred and groaned, struggled a little to ease his position. Anthony Garland walked over to him; he struck match after match but the rain beat on him and put them out quickly, so he contented himself with a cursory look into Baldy's face; then he examined Baldy's legs and returned to Monica.

"That's Sheriff Bentley's horse, Monica."

In the faint light of the fire he saw the saddle, bridle, and blanket, and gazed at them thoughtfully.

"If she had come down the Tantrum trail afoot," he said to himself, "she would have stuck to the trail; she wouldn't be this far down the meadows. That means she rode that horse down from Bogus! The poor animal is on the verge of death from exhaustion, so that means Bob Mason was forced back before the fire and has returned to Bogus.

"Probably he reached the lookout early in the afternoon, and when he realized Monica had to run for it he put her on the sheriff's horse and started her down the trail. He's up on Bogus now and Bogus is an island in a sea of smoldering embers and rebellious little fires still striving to smash their job. The sheriff is up on Bogus, too and so is this Uncle Charley Canfield. And Uncle Charley will protect Bob Mason at all costs.

"My word, what a game of hide-and-seek, and here is this poor girl actually trembling with apprehension, wondering what I'm thinking about. Guess I'd better quit thinking and not act as if I had any human intelligence. I know Mason wouldn't risk himself in the valley, because the hills and woods are his best protection. Of course, he'd remain on Bogus. How is he going to get anything to eat if he doesn't? And this exhausted half-dead horse couldn't carry double. If they'd tried it he would never have got off Bogus."

He looked at Monica. Her face was white and troubled but her glance did not falter before his. "Brave girl," he thought. Then aloud:

"Monica, I'm homeless. Fire wiped out my station about noon so I haven't any place to take you. Do you want me to sit across this fire all night and keep you company, or would you prefer to mount my horse and go back to Bogus with me? It's safe there now, and we can get there in two hours. It's apparent your friend Mason was camped here with you, but my approach sent him scuttling off into the darkness. I don't want to be mean to a good friend of yours, Monica, so suppose we pull out and let the poor devil come in out of the rain and hug this fire."

"Oh, Tony," she breathed. "Oh I think you're wonderful. You're kind!"

"At least I'm not a fool," he retorted smilingly. "Shall we go back to Bogus, get dried out, have a late supper and make the best of our sadly disturbed lives?"

"I must go back to Bogus, Tony!" She lifted the saddle, threw back the saddle-blanket and picked up the baby. Its feebly whimpering little cry rose above the roar of the downpour. "Look, Tony," she commanded softly, and knelt so the flickering light of the fire lighted up the puckered little face. "I think, perhaps, he may be my baby, Tony! Wouldn't that be wonderful—to have a baby on Bogus and never be lonely any more?"

Anthony Garland knelt beside her and silently looked at the little stranger; and presently his gaze questioned Monica.

"Bob Mason found it somewhere, Tony, and of course he couldn't think of anybody else to give it to—"

"And he came back—with that? Back to what's waiting for him—up yonder on Bogus! Oh, Monica, your friend's worth fighting for! By the Lord, there's a man's blood in him. Come, honey. Mount up and tuck his little Nibleta in under that slicker. I'll walk beside you. Got to get this chap full, warm and dry in a hurry, you know."

Monica Dale reached an arm out and around Anthony Garland's neck. "You are a dear," she murmured—and kissed him!

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

Friday. And it is past! The world was all wet from a rain when I let Jubilee down, but it wasn't raining. It was chillish but not cold, and warmish but not warm.

When I had got my work done me and the bunch went over to the mudhole in the brickyard before I went in to breakfast and felt of the water, and it as not so very warm but we made it up that we would try it after I had fed my face, and the bunch stayed there till me and Jubilee should come back.

When I had got done eating and had came out and gave Jubilee a fried egg that I had swiped for him me and him ran over to the mudhole. By the time I busted out around the end of the woodpile where the bunch was waiting himself over the red bearded man in the shack.

Lillian shot a quick glance at me. "He probably does," she assented. "But it won't do any harm to check up with him. However, if you'd like I'll take over that little job and leave you free to look yourself up with that code-written paper from the back of Olina's miniature."

to kick off my britches, and there was Youniss, and Maggie and Feeble. I made a grab at my shirt and coat that I had almost flang down and tried to jump behind the woodpile at the same time but my britches came down far enough to trip me, and I crawled behind the woodpile like a worm.

I heard Banty say, "It is a lovely day, isn't it?" and Feeble said, "It is an offal large morning for such a small night," and Maggie said, "I bet if anyone had a gun they could find strange things hiding in these woodpiles." Feeble said to lets go looking for things in the woodpiles right then. But I had my shirt and clothes on by then and I smuck around the other end of the woodpile where it goes close to the mudhole and reached out and got a handful of yellow mud without them seeing me, because they were all looking the other way. And then I heard them coming, and I heard the Lost Bag of Tripe say, "I will look first and see if I see anything to scare you ladies," so I seen the top of his head coming around the corner, and then his face. And if anyone ever got plastered good and plenty it was him. I will show him he cant munky with me and get away with it.

Me and Jubilee went to school then. I walked with my chin up and would not look around though they were all following me and talking to me, except the Lost Bag of Tripe. Girls certainly spoil a lot of things for a fella. But I guess if there wasn't any girls in the world there would not be anything worth spoiling. When school called I looked around and Youniss smiled at me and I looked at her hard to see if she as smiling at me or laughing at me, and she was smiling. Feeble was laughing. And then the teacher hollered at me and I turned around. I don't care.

My grandfather is still redheaded.

Hungary has only about 3,000 factories, but this is 1,000 more than it had in 1913.

CAL'S NAME ENTERS D.A.R. CONTROVERSY

Photostatic Letter to Ford Hall Forum Is Exhibited to Committee

Washington, April 20 — President Coolidge's name was injected into the D. A. R.'s "blacklist" controversy today when the insurgent forces, led by Mrs. Helen Tufts Baillie of Massachusetts, took their fight before the resolutions' committee of the convention.

Turning the tables on the D. A. R. old guard, Mrs. Baillie exhibited to the committee a photostatic copy of a letter the president wrote to George H. Coleman, director of Ford Hall Forum of Boston, on March 23, warmly praising the work of the forum and citing it to other communities as an example of civic progress.

The Ford Hall Forum was one of the organizations proscribed in the famous "blacklist" because of its alleged tolerance of "radical speech."

Concerning this proscribed institution, the president wrote:

"It has been a vital influence in Boston and a good example for other communities. Ihope it may be maintained under your (Coleman's) guiding hand for many years to come."

Mrs. Baillie, along with Mrs. Eleanor Roy of Kansas, and other so-called insurgents, took the lead in an endeavor to drag the "black-listing" of numerous public speakers and organizations out on the floor of the present convention for a thorough airing. To that end they sponsored a series of resolutions, which would deny the right of the national officers of the D. A. R., to commit the organization to any public policy without reference to the chapters. Individual chapters also would be given entire freedom to select speakers without reference to the national organization.

REPORT IS FILED BY BOOSTER COMMITTEE

The recently appointed booster committee composed of J. M. Schneider, J. M. Justice, and G. E. Abel made its first report last night at a meeting of Uniform Rank, No. 15, Knights of Pythias.

Announcement was made at the meeting of a card party to be held by Canby Lodge No. 61 tonight for all members and their families.

DISTRICT MEETING CONCLUDED TODAY

Pastors and Laymen from Here Attend Evangelical Convention

Four Marion Evangelical pastors, Rev. E. Radebaugh of Calvary Church, Rev. H. E. Williamson, of Oakland Church, Rev. Irvin Kauffman of Greenwood Church and Rev. James Campbell of Salem Church, south of the city, are expected to return home today from Westerville, where they attended the Columbus District Ministerial Convention, which closed today. About 40 laymen of the local Evangelical Churches returned last night after attending the convention.

Reverend Campbell served as chorister for the convention and two former Marion pastors, Rev. C. L. Aden and Rev. C. W. Ruhlman of Columbus took part in the program. Reverend Radebaugh talked on "The Prayer Life of the Minister" and Reverend Williamson served as leader for a special meeting. A combined chorus of Calvary, Oakland and Greenwood Churches were featured in special vocal numbers.

DIES AT AGE OF 91

Former Marion Woman Passes Away at Canton

Word has been received here of the death of Mrs. John Ralston of Canton, formerly of this city. Mrs. Ralston, who was 91 years of age, died last night of infirmities of age at the home of a grandson, Bert Ralston of Canton. Funeral services and burial will take place in Canton, Monday. Mrs. Ralston is survived by three grandchildren, all other members of the family having preceded her in death.

LAST RITES HELD FOR INFANT DAUGHTER

Funeral services for Dorothy Louise Gorsuch, infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert L. Gorsuch, who died Wednesday morning at the parents' home, 608 N. Main-st, were held yesterday morning at the home of Mrs. Gorsuch's mother, Mrs. J. H. Schrader of seven miles north of the city. Interment was in Nevada Cemetery. Dorothy Louise was an only child. The mother was formerly Miss Hazel Brooks.

Here's Speedy Relief for Tender, Aching, Swollen Feet

Moone's Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction Or Money Cheerfully Refunded

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't go another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture, you'd give anything to get relief.

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns and Callouses a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shivel right up and scaleoff.

No matter how discouraged you have been with powders, footbaths or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula—this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing varicose or swollen veins.

Henney & Cooper and every good druggist guarantees Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.—Adv.

HUGE WELCOME FOR FLIERS IS PLANNED

New York's Reception To Rival That Given for Colonel Lindbergh

group of workers, including Baron Von Huenefeld and Capt. Hermann Koehl, were dismantling the propeller and the broken landing gear of the famous transatlantic plane Bremen.

It is hoped that Maj. James J. Fitzmaurice, the third member of the famous sky skimming trio, will arrive tonight or tomorrow morning with replacement parts so that repairs can be made immediately. Baron Von Huenefeld wants to reach New York on Tuesday, if possible.

Further details of the sensational and dramatic flight, given today by the German baron, reveal that the oil tank on the plane sprang a leak while the machine was roaring through the mist and clouds over the ocean.

Cannot Hear Words

"While we were battling the wind and piercing the gigantic cloud banks I saw Fitzmaurice beckoning and shouting to Koehl, but the noise of the motor was so great that neither Koehl nor myself could make out his words," said the baron.

"Then Fitzmaurice took out pencil and pad and scribbled a note. Koehl read it without change of expression and I could not tell by his demeanor whether anything serious had happened. He passed the note to me and I read:

"Approach land while it is still possible for the oil tank seems to be leaking.

"Koehl smiled at Fitzmaurice, but his lips were moving and later I learned that he was reciting a little prayer for our safety. Then our bold Irish companion crawled from his seat and groped about the floor of the cabin. He found the leak and quickly repaired it and we all breathed easier once more."

Violence of Storm

Baron Von Huenefeld's narrative emphasized the violence of the storm against which the plane had to fight its way. He said that the icy wind which blew out of the northwest had the violence of a hurricane. At times the machine stood nearly upright in the air. He had the highest praise for the motor which worked with wonderful precision despite the terrific strain placed upon it. The plane, caught by cross currents and bounced by air pockets, rocked up and down like a cork tossed by stormy water.

The baron said that to elevate his own courage and keep up his hopes he muttered to himself:

"Don't show weakness; don't get soft; don't give up."

After a dreadful night of continuous perils, when the northern lights flickered through the Arctic sky, day dawned Friday and the sun came up a crimson ball out of the sea. Far below the airmen could see land. They knew they had reached America, but there were signs of a fresh storm.

Koehl and Fitzmaurice, who had been snatching bits of sleep at intervals, held the machine on what they thought was a southwesterly course. Below them they could see high, snow-clad mountains, great patches of forest and wide ice-filled rivers but no sign of human habitation.

Suddenly Fitzmaurice shouted:

"A boat! A boat!"

He had seen the lighthouse on this island, mistaking it for a ship at sea. Koehl steered close and the men saw it was a beacon on an island. The benzol was nearly exhausted and a landing had to be made. Persons on the island had seen the plane and ran out to greet the fliers. They were accompanied by Eskimo dogs which set up a great howling. That was the greeting to the fliers in America.

OFF FOR ISLAND

Bennett and Balchen Take Big Plane to Fliers

Detroit, April 20—Headed for Greenely Island, a big tri-motor Ford plane took off at 7:07 a. m. today to carry repair parts to the disabled transatlantic plane Bremen. The plane was carrying fuel sufficient for a 2,000-mile flight.

The plane was equipped for the flight here yesterday by Floyd Bennett and Bernt Balchen, chief pilots of Commander Richard E. Byrd's proposed South Pole expedition, who were at the controls when the machine took the air.

They were accompanied by Carl Wenzel, a Ford mechanic and Tom Mulroy, an engineer, and Charles J. V. Murphy of New York.

The first stop will be made at Murray Bay, Que., where the plane of Huerta Junkers, daughter of the Bremen builder, was forced down when she started with repair parts to Greenely Island. At Murray Bay skis will be placed on the Ford relief plane and the replacement parts will be transferred from Huerta Junkers' plane to the Ford ship.

REGISTRATION TO BE HELD HERE SATURDAY

All Local Voting Places To Be Open, Election Board Reports

Saturday will be the last day for receiving absent voters' ballots preliminary to next Tuesday's primary according to information from the headquarters of the county board of elections. The election board also announced that voting supplies would go out to the 72 precincts in the county Saturday.

New voters and those having moved from one precinct to another since registering last will be required to go to the respective voting places for registration Saturday in order to be qualified to vote at the primaries. The polls will be open for registration from 8 until 2 and from 4 to 9 o'clock, Saturday.

BAPTIST GROUP TO MEET IN MARION

Plans for Next Quarterly Session in July Made at Radnor Gathering

It was voted to hold the next quarterly meeting of the Marion Baptist Association at Emmanuel Baptist Church, this city, the third Thursday in July, at the meeting of members of the organization yesterday at the Baptist Church, Radnor. Sixty-five of the 210 members and guests in attendance at the meeting were from Marion churches and the award for attendance of members in points of number and mileage, was presented to Fite Memorial representatives. Richwood was awarded the banner for the reading contest.

Mrs. L. S. Davis, of Trinity Baptist Church, president of the organization, presided for the meeting and at the morning session devotionals were conducted by Mrs. Arthur Baxter, of Radnor. Mrs. Cora Gossler, of Trinity Baptist Church, reported on the World-Wide Guild work. Mrs. Harry Lodwig, Prospect, gave a report on the work in the literature department; Mrs. George of Green Camp, the Crusaders, Mrs. Gleich, Delaware, Prayer Band; Mrs. Powell, Morral, Home Director.

Mrs. Lodwig and Mrs. Thomas, of Prospect, sang a duet which was followed by a talk on "The Missionary Mail Box," by Mrs. Clayton Dix, of Marion, which closed the morning session. A basket dinner was enjoyed at the noon hour.

Mrs. G. L. Reed, Springfield, gave an address on her work as state secretary director, at the afternoon session which was opened with devotionals by Mrs. Alma Liggett, of Ostrander, and a song service directed by Rev. Wiley S. Young, of Fite Memorial Baptist Church. Scripture verses or words of a hymn were given in response to roll call and Mrs. Merritt, of LaRue, contributed a vocal number. Mrs. Victor Powell, of Green Camp, conducted an impressive consecration service and Rev. Reed, of Radnor, spoke the benediction.

GASOLINE GOES UP AT LOCAL STATIONS

Sinclair Dealers Raise Price Three Cents; Caused by Wholesale Market Boost

Following the lead taken several days ago by local filling stations selling Pure Oil Co. products, Sinclair Oil Co. stations here today raised the price of gasoline from 14 to 17 cents a gallon.

The advance is due, it was stated, to an advance in wholesale prices. There has been a steady advance in the wholesale market price in the last 60 days, due to unusually large consumption and low stocks at the refineries, local distributors said.

Reports here and in other localities indicate that an additional raise in the retail price may be necessary later on.

The raise at stations handling Pure Oil Co. products affected only the special grade of motor gasoline which has been selling at 14 cents. The company's standard product, known as Purest gasoline, is still selling at 19 cents.

The Pure Oil and Sinclair stations here placed 14-cent gasoline on sale at the time the Cut-Rate Filling Station was started here on E. Center-st about a year ago and inaugurated the sale of gasoline at a 15-cent rate. The manager of the Cut-Rate station says that no increase is contemplated at his place at this time.

MARION ATHLETES TO BE BANQUET GUESTS

Marion Lewis and Charles Cramer To Attend O. S. U. Event

Marion "Bud" Lewis and Charles "Tubby" Kramer will be among a number of outstanding high school athletes of the state to be banqueted by the Ohio State University Alumni Association tonight. The banquet is to be held at Pomerene Hall on the campus of the university.

The banquet is being held in connection with Ohio relays which are to be staged at the Stadium, Saturday. Athletes attending the banquet will be invited to attend the relays as guests of the university. The banquet is held annually to honor graduating high school athletes who Ohio State.

The two Marion athletes will be taken to Columbus by H. W. Hane, an alumnus of Ohio State.

Kramer was captain of last year's Harding High football squad and was warded the captaincy and a guard position on the all-star team of the North Central Ohio Conference. Lewis was an end on the team captained by Kramer and was also given a berth on the mythical team. Lewis also played a stationary guard on the Harding High cage squad during the past season.

CONTEMPT CASES TAKEN UNDER ADVISEMENT TODAY

Columbus, April 20—All of the testimony having been submitted the Ohio Supreme Court today took under advisement the cases of 12 persons accused of contempt of court in connection with alleged irregularities relative to state bar examinations. The court is expected to fix a date when the accused will again appear to hear sentence pronounced, or for notification of such action as the court may decide to take.

SCHOOLS READY FOR DECLAMATORY EVENT

All but One District in County Represented in Contest

With contestants entered from every school district in the county except Grand Prairie, the stage is all set for the declamatory contest of the elementary schools of the country to be held tonight as a preliminary to the finals in this city next Friday night, it was announced at the office of County Superintendent C. B. Rayburn, this morning.

The county has been divided into two sections for the contest, Tully, Scott, Caledonia, Claridon, Waldo and Pleasant constituting the eastern section and LaRue, Prospect, Green Camp, New Bloomington, Montgomery and Morral making up the west section. The contest in the west will be held at Morral and the contest in the east at Claridon.

In Two Groups.

The contestants have been divided into two groups. Children from grades one to four will constitute one group and those from the fifth to eighth, the second group. Only the winners of first and second places in each group in livery, memory, choice of selection and county contest.

Contestants will be judged on delivery, memory, choice of selection and general effect. Those winning first place in the sectional contests tonight will be awarded a gold medal, the second prize will be a silver medal and the third, a bronze medal. In addition to gold and silver medals being awarded the winners of the county contest next week, the school represented, will receive a cup.

SIGNS FREMONT GAS CONTRACT ON RATES

and this accounted for the delay in signing. Cross was at first of the opinion that it would be advisable not to sign the ordinance, he stated. This attitude was taken in view of the referendum fight against the ordinance now being waged in Fremont, he said, but after a conference with other officials of the company he decided to sign.

Meanwhile, the referendum petition at Fremont had acquired 1,362 signatures. Grant E. Mouser, in the attorney general's office here pointed out that this petition prevents the new ordinance going into effect until after it can be voted on by Fremont citizens at the next election. In case it is rejected at the polls, the ordinance is "dead."

Points Out Joker

Mouser pointed out what he termed a "joker" in the ordinance in a clause which fixes the rate at $1.00 net for the first 500 cubic feet, or less, or the light thereto." The latter part of this would mean that a consumer would have to pay even though a particular consumer did not use any gas, a charge which company officials in previous hearings had agreed to abandon, he said.

Newspapermen yesterday obtained the impression that the company would decline to sign the ordinance. Officials said today that this was a misconception and that the statement they gave out yesterday afernoon was to the effect that the ordinance had not then been signed—not that it had not rejected.

At Fremont, a non-partisan voters' association has been formed, backing the referendum fight. Ralph Cordrey is president. Though only 600 signatures were required to make the petition in order to effect a referendum vote, a total of 1,362 was reported when the petitions were called in last night.

SCHLEE, BROCK HURT IN AUTO ACCIDENT

Men Who Flew Two-Thirds Round World Motoring Victims

Detroit, April 20—Edwin F. Schlee and William S. Brock, who safely flew two-thirds of the way around the world in the "Pride of Detroit," today are suffering injuries received in an auto crash.

They were injured in a three-car crash while on their way to a banquet for airmen.

Schlee's nose was gashed and broken and it was reported one of his ribs may be fractured. Brock received contusions and lacerations on the right side of his face.

The famous fliers arrived at the banquet an hour late and in a somewhat dishevled state as the result of the crash. They addressed the diners on the relative hazards of travel by auto and airplane.

SAYS YOUTH WOULD CREATE CIVILIZATION

Education of Younger Generation Matter of Grave Concern, Newlon States

Columbus, April 20—"If through some painless method the elder generation could quietly be removed from this earth the present generation of youth would in 30 years create a civilization that would be 100 years in advance morally of the present day condition," Jesse H. Newlon, of the Columbia University of New York City declared in an address on "Education and Christian Life" before 3,500 people attending the international convention of the Disciples of Christ being held here this week.

"The age of the automobile, moving pictures, radio, an abundance of leisure time, and a measure of material comfort which no other nation on the earth has ever experienced, it is inevitable that education of the coming generation should be a matter of gravest concern," Newlon continued.

Asserting that he has had 23 years experience as a school master, Newlon said, "I want to testify this morning to my belief that the present generation of youth in America is the finest the world has ever known, judging by any standard you wish to apply."

BOXER AT DEFIANCE DIES FROM INJURIES

Nineteen-Year-Old Fighter Sustains Concussion When Knocked Down

Defiance, April 20—Howard Buck Lain, 19, Defiance boxer, died in a hospital here today of injuries sustained in a match at Fort Wayne, Ind., Wednesday night.

Lain is said to have sustained concussion of the brain when his head struck the edge of the ring after he was knocked down by Frankie Jer, Fort Wayne, in the fifth round.

COOLIDGE APPROVAL MAY AID FLOOD BILLS

House Leaders Suspend Debate To Work Out Details of Compromise

Washington, April 20—President Coolidge today approved "in principle" a proposal on the Jones Reid $325,000,000 flood control bill which may end the danger of a veto and the adjournment of Congress without enacting flood relief legislation.

House leaders planned to suspend debate on the bill to permit final details of the proposed compromise to be worked out.

MAN IS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE FOLLOWING FIGHT

Steubenville, April 20—Adam Martin 55, is dead, and George Koskey, 38, is held in the county jail here, as the result of a rough and tumble fight in an alleged speakeasy conducted by Martin, at Toronto, near here. The men are said to have been drinking in the basement of Martin's place when a fight started. Koskey says that Martin fell to the floor striking his head upon the concrete. Martin was brought to a hospital here where he died about midnight.

UNFAVORABLE WEATHER EXPECTED TO STOP RACES

Daytona Beach, Fla., April 20—Owing to unfavorable weather conditions, it was considered unlikely that Frank Lockhart, Indianapolis racer, will attempt today to break the world's speed record of 207 miles an hour, set last February by Major Malcolm Campbell of London.

Y. M. C. A.—Scout Leaders Hold Final Drive Meeting

The final meeting [illegible] captains and lieutenants, [illegible] opening of the Y. M. C. A. [illegible] campaign, was held at noon today [illegible] Y" building. Every team was [illegible] and reports were received showing [illegible] practically completed organiz[illegible] team is now waiting the signal [illegible] will be given at the inaug[illegible] Monday night. If the spirit [illegible] team of the workers is indicat[illegible] success the campaign is sure [illegible] in a large way.

Great interest is centering about the first report meeting which will determine what team and division will make the best [illegible] and set the pace for the other.

One of the unique features at the noon meetings will be the presentation of the Spizzerinktum Stars. The honor roll—"The Spizzerinktum" in this campaign will consist of those who bring in $150 or more in subscriptions. Citations for meritorious performances in action will be made daily at the noon meetings with $150 giving a Silver Star degree; $300.00 the Gold Star degree. A representative citizen of Marion will be selected as the high potentate of the Order of Spizzerinktum Stars and will each day, make the proper awards.

The special gifts committee met last night and outlined its work for the remainder of the campaign. Members of the committee reported, thus far, very cordial response of all they had approached. The goal being somewhat larger than last year and including not only funds for the Y. M. C. A. and the Boy Scouts but also funds for necessary improvement and added equipment for the Boys' Camp, is leading many to give in larger amounts than they did last year. This of course is necessary if the campaign is to be a success.

Town's Second Fire

This was Carey's second fire within a period of about 15 hours.

Late yesterday afternoon a large barn and two other small buildings and all of the contents were destroyed at the rear of the home of J. F. Jesko. Included in the contents were an Overland automobile owned by Mr. Jesko and an outfit of valuable tools.

The loss was estimated at $1,000. The fire is believed to have started from defective wiring in the automobile, which was placed in the barn shortly before the fire was discovered.

FIRE AT DELAWARE

Big Junk Plant, Township House and Dwellings Are Destroyed

(Special to The Star)

Delaware, April 20—A huge frame structure that housed the Blackford Junk Co., two dwellings and the Delaware Township House were destroyed by fire here early today with a loss estimated at between $15,000 and $18,000.

The Blackford structure was a former livery barn. The destroyed buildings were located at Washington and Springs-sts. The houses were owned by Mont Blackford and Charles Shobe. The township house was a small affair and had been used as a voting booth.

Rags and papers in the junk plant caused the blaze, it is believed.

MEET IN CHURCH PARLORS

Collegiate Auto Designs at O.S.U. Being 'Toned Down'

Marion Star Bureau
Ohio State University

Columbus, April 20—Collegiate autos described as the "American tragedies" in the automobile industry, have again taken possession temporarily, of the Ohio State University campus and are causing traffic officers of the university their usual spring worry.

In an effort to eliminate the more elaborate type, collegiate car owners this spring are turning to the less fancy decorated models. The brilliant paint and lettering characteristic of the styles of previous seasons is lacking in the new models, resulting possibly from the strained financial status of the college students.

Popular Design

Stripes with an occasional spotting design make up decorations meeting with the popular approval of the "tragedy" proprietors, with the plain original black and now and then an orange or red, the favorite colors.

All organism of the machine not necessarily needed in the mechanical functioning, as usual are missing. Headlights are there but are bulbless; spare tires unheard of, while fenders appear to be more numerous than ever before. Original taillights, long lost and forgotten, are being replaced in order to harmonize with the Columbus police department, with lanterns.

The favorite expression of "rattle-trap collegiate Fords" is nearly obsolete, inasmuch as other varieties of ancient vintage designs have somewhat usurped the position held by the "Detroit Tintypes."

BEECH MISSIONARY GROUP MEETS IN CHURCH PARLORS

Beech, April 20—The Missionary Society of the Salem Evangelical Church met Wednesday afternoon at the church. The meeting was in charge of Mrs. Grant Key who had the last chapter of the lesson study book entitled, "A Strait Way for Tomorrow."

Devotionals wer conducted by Mrs. G. W. Sergent and Mrs. James E. Campbell. Special readings were given by the members.

Mrs. Grant Key and Mrs. G. H. Glauner were chosen captains of the two sides in the reading contest. Nine members were in attendance. Mrs. James E. Campbell will be in charge of the meeting next month beginning with a new study book.

Those present were Mrs. W. O. Miller, Mrs. John Myers, Mrs. Grant Key, Mrs. Adaline Klinefelter, Mrs. G. H. Glauner, Mrs. William Krautter, Mrs. James E. Campbell, Mrs. Harley Klinefelter and Mrs. G. W. Sergent.

ENTERTAIN GUESTS

Martel, April 20—Mr. and Mrs. Ray Hedding entertained a number of guests at their home south of here Tuesday night, at a taffy pulling. Those present were: Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Rodock, Mr. and Mrs. R. W. Darling, Miss Cleo Darby, Miss Ruth Dell Auman, Mrs. Lulu Trefz, Mrs. Z. O. Emeiser and Walter Seevy.

RACERS HANDICAPPED

Handicapping racing dogs by mal-merry is being tried by use of a starting box that has just been invented by R. Wallace of London. The apparatus is controlled by a dial that is surrounded by plug switches, by which the gates of the kennels are opened as desired. As the hare passes a certain point it automatically switches on the current connecting the gates and thus releases the canines at the handicapped times.

England now has 1,892 women magistrates.

ANOTHER MARION LADY INDORSING THE NEW KONJOLA

Ended the Dreadful Neuritis Pains She Was Suffering

Reports are now being received from all parts of Marion, in which men and women are describing the wonderful relief this celebrated Konjola medicine has given them in cases of stomach, liver, kidney and bowel disorders or rheumatism and neuritis. Just a few days ago, Mrs. Emma McNeal, well known Marion lady, residing at 322 Uncapher Ave., this city, made the following remarkable statement:

MRS. EMMA M'NEAL

"Konjola has helped me a great deal more than I ever expected of any medicine," said Mrs. McNeal. "It built up my health in general and at the same time it relieved the awful neuritis pains which I had been suffering for years.

"I was having a terrible time with my nerves and I couldn't find a medicine to help me. But the worst thing about my case was the dreadful neuritis pains which affected my arms and limbs. My muscles seemed to jerk and twist, and I often felt like every nerve in my body was on edge. I couldn't sleep, and I know I was suffering worse agonies than I could describe in writing. Both day and night I was in misery.

"I couldn't find anything that would really end my trouble, and I didn't know what to do next. Then I heard about Konjola and what it was doing for Marion people, so I went to the Konjola Man and I got this medicine and started taking it right away. I noticed a difference almost at once, and I continued with Konjola until now I can hardly realize that I ever had a sick day in my life, and the wonderful relief I got from that awful neuritis is the greatest blessing of all. I can sleep a whole night without one single pain. I always feel good in the mornings, and seem to have more life and energy than I ever noticed in myself before.

"After all the great good Konjola has done for me I can recommend it to everyone."

Konjola is strongly recommended at the Stump & Sams Pharmacy, 121 South Main-st, and by all the best druggists in all towns throughout this section.—Adv.

BYRD'S POLAR PAL READY FOR TRIP

"Igo," sometimes called "The Commander," is the pet pal of Commander Richard E. Byrd, aviator and polar explorer. "Igo" didn't seem to mind the cold when he flew with his master across the North Pole, so he is to be taken along on the projected South Pole expedition. He is shown here resting after a stroll with his master through the streets of Boston.

Contracts for County Road Work Amounting to $45,431 Awarded by Commissioners

Six Miles of Highway To Be Improved; Four Separate Projects Listed; Are To Be Completed Before Fall

Contracts were awarded yesterday afternoon by the Board of County Commissioners for construction of six miles of improved road in the county at a total cost of $45,431.95. The contract prices total $6,118.53 less than the preliminary estimated cost, which was placed at $51,549.58. Bids were opened in the commissioners' office at the courthouse.

The six miles, to be built this summer, are made up of four roads, the Somerlott-Huffman-rd in Pleasant and Richland Townships, the DeCliff-rd in Montgomery Township, the Mt. Olive-Green Camp-rd in Bowling Green Township, and the Goodnow-rd in Salt Rock Township.

Details of Awards

The Somerlott-Huffman-rd consists of one and nine-tenths miles of rolled macadam. It is to be completed by Sept. 1. Contract for the construction of this road was awarded to W. C. Bailey, of Marion, at his bid of $10,-402.23. The estimated cost was $11,-500.28.

The DeCliff-rd consists of one and a half miles of water-bound macadam. It is to be completed by Aug. 1. The contract was sold to Molloy & Seckle, of Marion. Their bid was $10,937.22 and the estimated cost of the road was $13,782.55.

Molloy & Seckle were also successful bidders on the Mt. Olive-Green Camp-rd. The construction of the one and six-tenths miles of waterbound macadam roadway is to cost $14,216.91. The estimated cost was $19,229.49.

Both roads sold to Molloy & Seckle are to be completed by Aug. 1.

The Goodnow-rd, which consists of one mile of waterbound macadam, was sold to S. M. Wooley whose bid was $7,601.69. The estimate was $9,783.59. It is to be completed by Aug. 1.

List of Bids

Bids submitted on the roads follow:

Somerlott-Huffman-rd: L. D. Brady, Marion, $10,788.66; Dunn & Roller, $10,911.06; Brady & McConnell, Marion, $10,920.03; W. C. Bailey, Bailey, Marion, $10,493.33.

DeCliff-rd: Dunn & Roller, $12,-569.16; Austine, Carey, Kenton, $11,-271.11; Laubis Stone Co., Hepburn, $10,937.22; C. F. Schwab, Bucyrus, $11,398.55; Molloy & Seckle, $10,937.22. The Laubis Stone Co. and Molloy & Seckle submitted identical bids.

Mt. Olive-Green Camp-rd: Rochbold Bros, $15,792.83; Austine & Carey, $15,243.92; Brady & O'Connell, $17,-328.27; W. C. Bailey, $14,480.73; Molloy & Seckle, $14,270.91.

Goodnow-rd: Dunn & Roller $8,-515.33; S. M. Wooley, $7,601.69; Ideal Construction Co., Upper Sandusky, $9,-200.60; Molloy & Seckle, $7,690.20.

Batters of Both Major Leagues Far Ahead of Pitchers

BOX SCORES SHOW 13 TEAMS MADE 178 HITS IN SINGLE DAY

Record Does Not Include Cincinnati Reds Held to Two Hits

New York, April 20—That the batters of both major leagues are far ahead of the pitchers is indicated by a perusal of the box scores of yesterday's games, in which 13 teams pounded out 178 hits, including 64 extra base plows, for a combined average of .335. This does not include the record of the Cincinnati Reds, who were held to two hits by Sheriff Blake of the Cubs.

"Pie" Traynor of the Pirates led the sluggers with five hits. Those who collected four bingles were Hack Wilson, Joe Kelly and Pitcher Blake of the Cubs and Les Bell of the Braves. Wilson slammed out two homers and Kelly one.

Get 15 Homers

Fifteen home runs in all rattled off the bats of the big league sluggers. Babe Ruth collected his first four-base blow of the season. Ken Williams of the Red Sox, Ruth's chief home run rival in other years, also got one and is now leading the American Leaguers with three homers. Grantham hit Pittsburgh's first home run of the season.

Capturing their seventh victory in eight starts, the Cleveland Indians jumped to first place in the junior circuit by trouncing Chicago, 9 to 2, while the New York Yankees were splitting a double bill with Boston. The Indians have won four straight from the Sox.

Although outbatted 16 to 7, the Red Sox made it a real Patriots' Day by nosing out the Yanks 7 to 0. Herb Pennock turned the Sox back in the second game, 7 to 2.

Detroit, now hitting on all nine cylinders after a bad start, outwalked the St. Louis Browns, 9 to 8, in a wild game in which no less than 18 passes were issued. Paul Easterling, understudy for Outfielder Fothergill, clouted his second homer in as many days.

The National League race tightened up when the New York Giants were nosed out by the Boston Braves, 9 to 8. Rogers Hornsby, banished Giant, knocked in the winning run in the tenth.

Twenty-one Pirates made 14 hits but seven of their pitchers, including John Miljus, world series hero, were treated most brutally by the St. Louis Cardinals, who won the 18 to 10 slugfest. The Cards jumped to second place.

Making 21 hits to Cincinnati's two, Sheriff Blake and his Cubs trounced the Reds 13 to 0.

A seven-run rally in the sixth which routed Jumbo Elliott, gave the Phils a 9 to 5 decision over Brooklyn.

WILL USE PLANES

Coast League Teams Will Fly To Cities In Future

San Francisco, April 20 —"Within the next five years the Pacific Coast league baseball teams will be making their jumps to the various cities in airplanes."

That is the prediction of Bill Lane, president of the Hollywood Baseball Club, who says baseball and aviation will be closely linked in the future.

"As soon as air conditions are more practical," he said, "the coast league will abandon trains and fly from city to city. This will mean that we can operate on a major league schedule, playing half a week in a city and then moving to another city. Transportation has been a drawback to that plan."

MANY HIGH SCHOOLS OF SECTION ENTERED IN RELAYS AT STATE

Prospect Only Marion County Village To Take Part in Meet

Columbus, April 20—Rapid entry this week of Ohio high schools and colleges in the Fifth Annual Ohio Relays which will be held at the Ohio Stadium this week-end has brought the total number of contestants to nearly 2,000, according to W. D. Griffith, manager of the meet.

Entries in the Fifth Annual Relays in the vicinity of Marion include: Kenton High School, Ashley High School and junior high school, Carey High School, Chatfield High School, Prospect High School, Marysville High School, Harpster High School, Ohio Wesleyan University of Delaware and Ohio Northern University of Ada.

Today's events which will include a majority of the finals of the high school division, will start at 2 p. m. Preliminaries in the college and university events will be run off starting at 9 o'clock Saturday morning with the finals scheduled for 1:30 o'clock Saturday afternoon.

Andy Cohen Sets Tough Pace For Self By Proving Big Hero In Initial Contest

By FRANK G. MENKE

ANDY COHEN blew himself to a Frank Merriwell start as second sacker for the Giants.

Which is too bad.

The wild demonstration that was accorded the young player, after the opening game, was tremendous—unlike any ever before accorded to a baseballer.

That's too bad.

Rarely in baseball history has a youth, making his debut in the majors, performed quite as heroically as Cohen on inaugural afternoon. Almost single-handed; he squashed the enemy and won the combat for the Giants.

That's also too bad.

For by doing all those things—or having them happen to him—Cohen must continue to be almost a super-athlete to save himself from the razzing or jazzing of the fickle baseball fans.

Hero Today, Tomorrow —?

In baseball you're a hero today and nine kinds of a dead-one for the following 19 weeks.

If a man opens up his baseball act with magical feats, the multitude assumes that it's the regular thing for him to do. When he relapses to normalcy, the fans generally conclude that he's slipping or his sensational playing was just a flash in the pan. And then they blaze at him with scorn, jeers, hoots and catcalls.

It was ever thus in baldom.

Cohen opened up in the first game, as a substitute for the great Rogers Hornsby, with throttle wide open, traveling at a terrific rate. He hit for .750 that day, knocked in so many runs that the scorers are still adding up and he fielded faultlessly.

A Great Player

When the game ended the frenzied Giant rooters leaped upon the field and circled and milled about him as he tried to make his way to the clubhouse.

A hero of heroes was Cohen.

Loud huzzahs rent the twilight.

"Greater than Hornsby."

"Greatest of them all."

So rang the shouts.

But the reaction is inevitable!

That'll make it tough for the game little kid when it does happen.

He won't hit .750 every day. Days—and more days—will come when he will go hitless. He will make errors; he will fail in one crisis and another and sometimes lose ball games. They all suffer through these bad days.

What'll happen then?

Bad Days Ahead

Cheers, of course, will not be his portion. But jeers undoubtedly will be doled out to him in abundance. Those who called him "wonderful" on opening day probably will come to call him "bum"—or worse—on days of failure.

Baseball—and its rabid fans—are like that.

Cohen started off like all the heroes of fiction rolled together. He was the titantic figure of the game. He was a super-player that day. Chances are he isn't a super-player; just a good player, perhaps a near-great even so early in his career.

And when he skids from the giddy heights he scaled on opening day and slides back into his proper niche—well, that'll be the time that Andy Cohen will realize the fickleness of baseball fandom.

Believed to be the fattest man in the world, Emil Hoehne, of Germany, weighs 541 pounds, and his suits require more than six and one-half yards of material.

A CHALLENGE TO CIGAR SMOKERS
who say a good cigar can't be made for 5c

There are lots of five-cent cigars, we admit, that don't always give you full value for your nickel. But here's one that works the other way: Havana Ribbon. You can prove it: Put a Havana Ribbon longside some other five-cent cigars. Mix 'em up. Choose and smoke them blindfolded. You'll single out the Havana Ribbon quicker than you can spot a rose in a cabbage patch!

Flavor? Fragrance? Mildness? You simply never before experienced anything like it in a nickel cigar. Because Havana Ribbon contains no bitter, under-ripe nor "flat," over-ripe tobacco. But true-tasting, flavor-laden ripe middle leaves of the plant. And long-filler, at that! If you want to know how we can do it, read some of our other ads. Meantime, don't delay making the above experiment. There's a cigar counter near. Havana Ribbon is also sold in Practical Pocket Packages of five cigars.

The other hinge seems to be like one of those 1921 motors; that is to say, it is missing on all seven, which are all the days we have this week. Thomas Henney is a foreigner and, therefore, is unfamiliar with the habits and customs of this strange country.

Heeney in England

Thomas is in England and they can't seem to get him started in any direction. His American mawster, Charles Harvey, has twice cabled him to come here immediately. This, when translated into English, may have been taken to mean that he was to stay away in droves.

In any event, one word from Mr. Harvey and Thomas seems to do just as he intended in the first place. This not only is a very poor spirit to display, but, more, it smacks of extremely bad business sense.

There now, I've gone and insulted the poor fellow.

Hawaii had more visitors during the past winter than in any previous tourist season.

WIND STOPS GAME

Outfield Flies Blown Back To Home Plate By Gale

NEW YORK, April 20—The gale which swept New York and vicinity yesterday wrought havoc in the sports world.

The Toronto-Newark ball game at Newark was called off when the wind blew outfield flies back to the home plate.

YANKS AT HOME

New York Club Out of First Place After Defeat

New York, April 20—Out of first place for the first time this season, the world's champion New York Yankees opened their home season here today against the Philadelphia Athletics.

Anticipating further developments in the Ruth-Gehrig home run race, the fans turned out in droves to witness their favorites. Babe got his first homer yesterday and now is only one behind Buster.

Mayor James J. Walker will throw out the first ball.

SPRING SPORTS WILL GET UNDER WAY AT WOOSTER NEXT WEEK

Baseball, Tennis and Track Events To Mark Opening of Season

Wooster April 20—Spring sports at Wooster College, will get under way next week with two baseball games, two tennis matches and a track meet on the card. The baseball games, Ashland at Wooster April 23 and Mt. Union at Wooster April 27 are the only home contests.

The baseball team is rounding into form with six letter men back from last season. Pete Blough's injured knee has stood the strain so far and it is hoped here that it will hold up for the season. Blough, with Beeler will do most of the pitching and play first base. Blough was moved in from center field for the play at first is expected to be easier on him than outfield duty. Schweisberger, captain, will play second after two seasons in left field. Marta has been moved from second to short. Bill Query is out of the game for a while with an infected knee, the result of playing independent basketball after the college season closed. Dave Query, the other half of the pair of twins, will play third base. The outfield is still doubtful. R. Young, in right, is the only one certain of his place.

Wooster's tennis team will start the season meeting Ohio Wesleyan at Delaware April 23 and Ashland at Ashland April 28. This is the first tennis match between Wooster and Ashland.

FLAG PRESENTATION MADE AT SCHOOL

Women's Relief Corps in Charge of Program at Forest Lawn

Mrs. Ettie Foster, patriotic instructor of Cooper Women's Relief Corps, No. 104, presented a flag from the Corps to Forest Lawn School yesterday afternoon and was in charge of the program.

Commander Charles Wiles, Cooper Post, No. 117, gave an address on the flag, and the president, Mrs. Ethe Neal, gave a short history of the flag. W. G. Balding, 83-year-old veteran, sang "Rally Round the Flag Boys," and the Relief Corps quartet, Mrs. Alice Dundore, Mrs. Agnes Bower, Mrs. Lula Merchant and Mrs. Lilla Kennedy sang two patriotic songs. Miss Linda Willauer, principal of the school, gave a talk accepting the flag given the school and each of the six grades presented a patriotic program of songs and readings. The assembly closed with singing of "The Star Spangled Banner."

PLANS FOR WATERWAY ARE "TIED IN KNOT"

Canadian Government Contends Chicago Diversion Must Be Stopped

Washington, April 20—Plans for the Mississippi Valley deep waterway development were tied in a knot today by Canada's refusal to sanction diversion of Lake Michigan waters to the Chicago Sanitary District.

The Dominion government remains adamant in its contention that the Chicago diversion must be stopped.

Two years' correspondence on the subject between Ottawa and Washington was made public today.

Twice within a week Canada has revealed her intention of blocking waterway projects until the United States guarantees adequate protection of her St. Lawrence waterpower rights. The St. Lawrence correspondence, published yesterday showed the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence ocean channel deadlocked on the same issue.

Rejecting the United States' proposal for compensation works in the St. Clair River to maintain the present lake level, Vincent Massey, Canadian minister, declared vigorously in his late note that his government would not even discuss such construction as long as the fundamental question, the legality of the Chicago diversion under international law, remained unsettled in principle.

Throughout the involved correspondence Secretary of State Kellogg studiously avoided admission that Chicago had violated any Canadian right. His utmost concession in that direction was that the whole subject was one for negotiation—not upon abstract legal concepts but rather on the basis of the complicated technical problems of a 25-year reality.

TWO INITIATED

New Members Received by Local Railway Men's Lodge

Two candidates were initiated and three applications for membership voted on at the regular meeting of Erie Lodge No. 1008, Brotherhood of Railway Carmen of America, held at the Red Men's Hall on S. Main-st, last night.

Arrangements were made for a banquet to be held April 30. Russell Patterson, president of the organization, had charge of the meeting. The next regular session will take place May 3.

TRAFFIC MEN MEET

Marion Represented at Club Session Held in Mansfield

R. L. Alger, Mansfield, was elected president, H. E. Woldgen, Lima, vice president, and A. B. Caddell, Mansfield, secretary and treasurer at the meeting last night of the Central Ohio Traffic Club in the Mansfield-Leland Hotel, Mansfield. About 200 traffic men, including officials of several railroads and the American Railway Co., were present at the banquet at 6:30 o'clock in the hotel. Retiring officers of the club were M. B. Lindsay, Bucyrus, president; L. R. Johnson, Marion, vice president, and L. R. Campbell, secretary and treasurer. About 25 Marion traffic men attended.

NEVADA WOMEN'S GROUP DISCUSSES CANDIDATES

Nevada, April 20—The local W. C. T. U. held a regular meeting Tuesday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Ethel Keltner, with 10 members present.

The devotionals were conducted by the hostess. After routine business the qualifications for delegates to the National Prohibition Convention were discussed. The members were unanimous in their decision to vote only for dry candidates and their respective parties, and agreed to work to help get out the vote. The union also decided to put on a bake sale May 19.

The following papers were then read and discussed: "The Purposeful Institute," "Green Hands—Who Wants Them?", "The Institute Indispensible," "The Institute the Thing," "Serve the Present Age." Miss Evelyn Keltner, daughter of the hostess, played a delightful piano solo.

The hostess and her assistants served dainty refreshments, after which the meeting adjourned.

Mrs. Maggie Kriechbaum will be the leader for the May meeting, and the place of meeting will be announced later.

YOUNG WOMEN'S CLUB MEETS

Upper Sandusky, April 20—A large attendance was present at the last meeting of the Young Women's Club which was in the form of a "port luck" supper at the Y Building Wednesday night. Games and stunts followed the supper hour and the club adjourned to meet again in the fall.

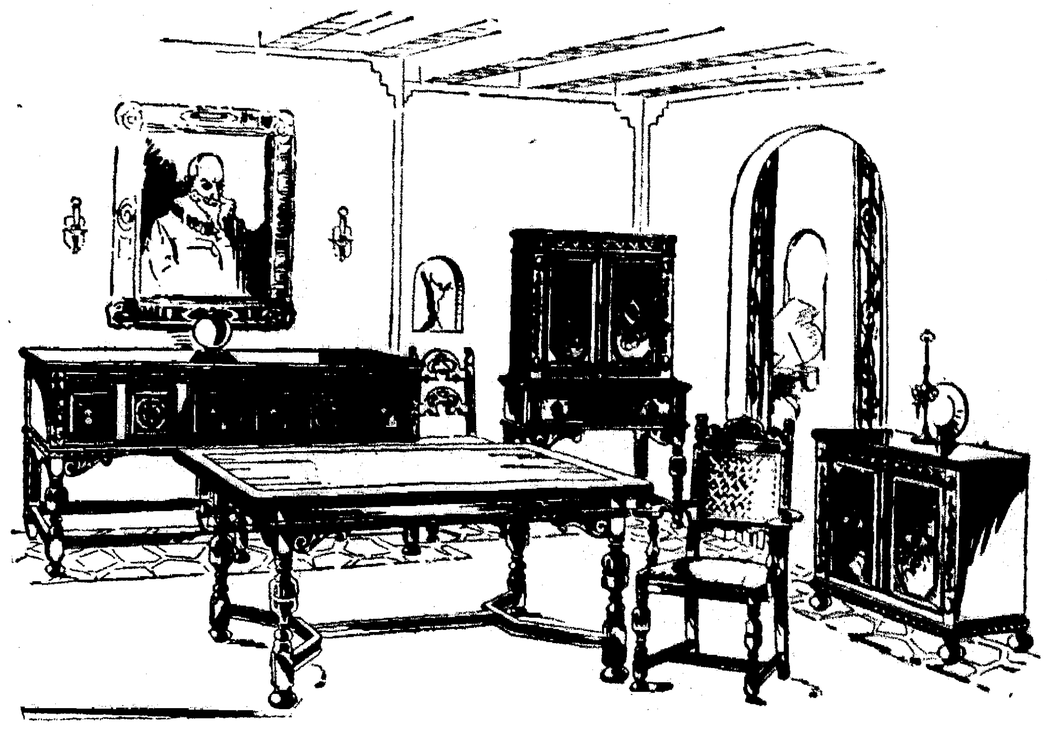
Schaffner's Announce Spring Styles In Distinctive, Dependable Furniture

Never have styles been more lovely and seldom have prices been lower You will enjoy a visit to the store. You will be welcome too.

New Coffee Tables at $45.00
Made with fine turned legs and decorative stretchers. Complete with tray top.

This Boudoir Chair for $18.50
Made over good strong frames with a choice of coverings that include chintz, damask, etc.

A Fine Desk for a Price of $85.00
Beautifully finished in mahogany with unusual hardware and design. Fine for the living room.



The Peterborough, Nine Pieces at $500

The credulousness of Jacobean times is reflected in its chroniclers. Thus one of these assured his readers that goldfish kept in a glass of water would live forever. And farmers gave their calves "a piece of chalk to licke, which they hold makes them white in the flesh within."

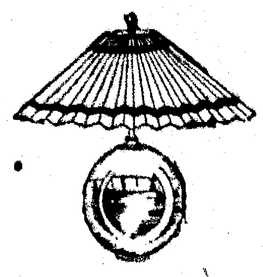
Th craftsmen of Jacobean times were more skillful than the chroniclers. Their furniture splendidly reflected in plain forms, in restrained yet beautiful decoration the practical hardy life of the day. The "Peterborough" realizes this spirit, being a splendid example of re-created historical style.

The suite, essentially Jacobean, offers a variety of decorative details and quiet contrast in the tones of straight grain walnut and English swirl oak, of ornamental designs in boxwood and ebonized pearwood. American gumwood, notably permanent and uniform in color, constitutes stretchers, legs, posts and constructional details.

Velours upholstery and old brass fittings maintain the taste of Jacobean design as does the lustrous depth and color of a finish rubbed by hand.

For your convenience. The sideboard's left-hand drawer is fitted with a plush-lined partitioned tray for silverware, the chest with a long tray for linen. These trays are solid mahogany like the drawers which have three-ply bottoms to prevent warping. They are finished so that delicate contents cannot be soiled, carefully fitted to make them dust-proof and so that they will open smoothly without sticking.

Gateleg Table in Solid Mahogany for $24.50
In fine antique mahogany finish. Excellently made to give years of service.



A Quaint Water Bottle Lamp at $5.50
Complete with shade in a multitude of charming colors. Just the lamp for your desk.

A Cogswell Chair for $99.50
Choice of several fine upholsteries. Down filled seat and back. Fine mahogany frame.

The Fielding Five Pieces at $625

In more ways than one the "Fielding" displays the mark of Heppelwhite. The several drawers of the cabinet pieces, various in size, are characteristic as are the richly figured woods composing them—hand-matched crotch walnut and maple burl, the wood which in league with applique carving signalizes the mirror supports. Reeded legs, fluted posts, the foot board and large drawers' adornments carved in a festoon design and the numerous hand-painted decorative panels—all are contributory to a singularity of style character, a real gentility.

Unusual Values in Carpets and Fine Rugs

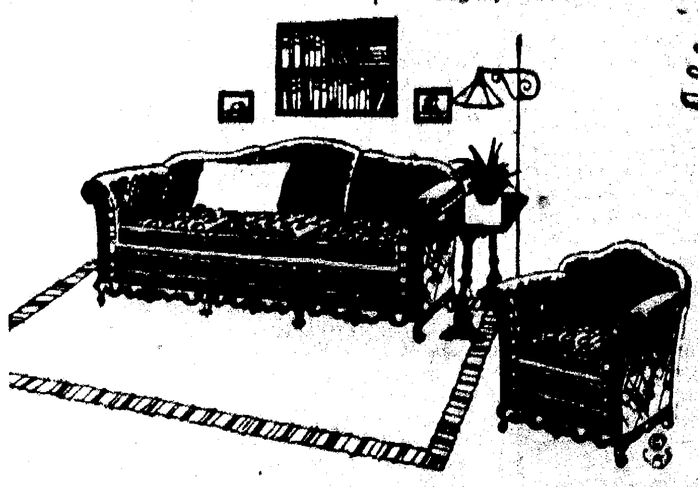
Since the vogue of carpeting rooms has been with us, we have made many lovely carpet installations. We can show you artistic decorative patterns in all qualities. We will gladly help work out your color scheme and give you estimates.

Fine Wiltons

Just now we are showing a beautiful assortment of handsome Wiltons in all sizes and many patterns. Prices in 9x12 sizes start at $69.50.

Just Arrived

A large assortment of porch and sun porch rugs, in most exclusive patterns. They are weather proof and many reversible in an entirely different pattern and color, giving you two rugs for the price of one.



The Trianon, Two Piece $450

Really fine furniture like this is rare outside of the most expensive imported furniture. And furniture quality at this price more uncommon still. See this suite. It is difficult to speak moderately about its value. Do you admire French design in furniture? Here it is authentically correct, yet offering a modern, stylish charm. Would you like to possess, like many others, the famous Valentine-Seaver name on your furniture? It is on each piece of this Trianon Suite—and is assurance of sound construction, exquisite design, and splendid quality.

Many Unusual Floor and Table Lamps Were Just Received. Mica, Parchment and Silk.

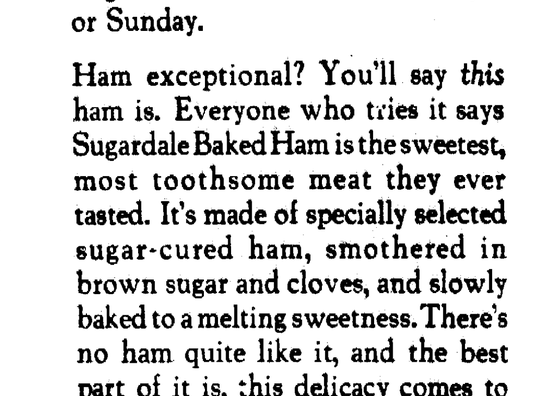
Sweet and tasty Sugardale Baked Ham



TREAT your family to an exceptional dinner—give them Sugardale Baked Ham tomorrow or Sunday.

Ham exceptional? You'll say this ham is. Everyone who tries it says Sugardale Baked Ham is the sweetest, most toothsome meat they ever tasted. It's made of specially selected sugar-cured ham, smothered in brown sugar and cloves, and slowly baked to a melting sweetness. There's no ham quite like it, and the best part of it is, this delicacy comes to you ready to serve—there's no hot cooking, no work of any kind for you to do.

Sugardale Baked Ham is this week's Sugardale Special, featured today and tomorrow at all leading independent stores. Buy it by the slice or buy a whole or half ham. You'll delight the family and save yourself.

Sugardale

All Sugardale Meats are specially cured with a delightful flavor all their own. And they are all easy to identify—wrapped for purity, and known by the famous blue diamond.

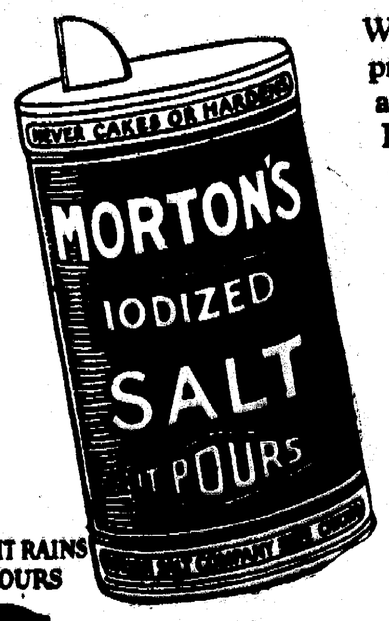
PREVENTS GOITER

AND POURS FREELY IN DAMP WEATHER



WHEN IT RAINS -IT POURS

What more can you ask of a table salt than that it protect your children from simple goiter and pour as freely in damp weather as in dry? Morton's Iodized Salt does both and does them well.

When you consider that goiter threatens 2 out of every 3 children, the importance of using an iodized salt is obvious. But be sure to choose a reliable brand, for iodized salt can do more harm than good if not properly mixed.

Made by one of America's oldest and most reliable salt makers, Morton's Iodized Salt contains just enough tasteless iodine to prevent goiter . . . but not enough to disturb the most delicate system. Get it from your grocer at once and use it on the table and in cooking.

Life's Springtime!
Happy, carefree childhood, tripping gaily along through a procession of golden days, enjoying life to its fullest!
These little tots have more wisdom than their elders sometimes give them credit for. Their alert young minds grasp ideas very readily. The idea that "There's a Difference in Bread," for example, seems natural to them. They are quick to detect variations in this daily food.
You can find no better growing food than HOLSUM, nor one superior for helping to keep the whole family in sound health. This bread is always clean, always wholesome, for it comes from a big, modern bakery, fresh in its waxed wrapper.
There's a Difference in Bread
So—don't say bread—say

GAY and deft, the two long short stories or novelettes by A. ... Miller, incorporated in her new book, "Welcome Home," will furnish the most sophisticated reader an evening's entertainment. Mrs. Miller is a born story-teller seasoning suspense with wit and mellowing it with good humor. Her worldly wisdom is both fun and common sense and she has the agreeable ability of looking at herself, her characters and her readers alike with tolerant amusement. She takes the stuff of mystery, adventure and romance, and fashions it with a neatness and lightness which should disarm all but the most disgruntled and case-hardened cynic.—H.-T.

FOUR BOOKS FROM HOLT COMPANY

"The Last Bohemia", by Francis Carco, "The Withered Root", by Rhys Davies, "Many Minds", by Maurice Hutton, and "The Psychology of Socialism", by Hendrik D. Man, were published this week by Henry Holt & Co.

M. Carco's book is a delightfully illustrated volume of recollections of a Parisian Bohemia of our own generation. Mr. Davies' novel is a stirring story of the life of a Welsh revivalist. "Many Minds" is a collection of essays by a noted Canadian educator on a wide variety of topics, literary and philosophical. Count Keyserling calls Herr de Man's book "the most important work on these problems since Karl Marx' 'Das Kapital'."

MOST OF SINCLAIR BOOK WRITTEN IN BERLIN

Sinclair Lewis' latest book, "The Man Who Knew Coolidge" has just been published by Harcourt, Brace & Co. Most of it was written in Berlin where Mr. Lewis has been living for almost a year, but at least one chapter came into being in Moscow, where Lewis had voyaged as a traveler and also as a literary man somewhat annoyed because the Soviet Government printing press was spreading "Babbitt" and "Main Street" over Russia without consideration of royalties. "The Man Who Knew Coolidge" is as fresh a creation of Mr. Lewis' as was "Babbitt."

HIGHWAY WILL BE IMPROVED

Wyandot County Auto Club Members Are Assured of Improvements This Year

Upper Sandusky, April 20—Wyandot County is assured a completely improved Lincoln Highway during the coming year, according to declarations made by several state officials speaking at the annual banquet of the Wyandot County Automobile club, held at the "Y" gymnasium, last night. Rousing applause verified the fact that this was the predominant question in every one's mind.

Over 150 attended the affair, which was rated the most enthusiastic and inspirational auto club banquet in years. Charles Artz, president of the club, presided as toastmaster first introducing George F. Schlesinger, of Columbus, director of state highways, who spoke upon highway transportation as the artery of industrial and social life. He reviewed the various methods of transportation since the beginning of time, then gave an insight into the Ohio State Highway Department which was established in 1904, but was of small importance until 1913. It now controls 11,000 miles of splendid roads.

Secretary of State Speaks

Toastmaster Artz then introduced Clarence J. Brown, Secretary of State, Columbus, who brought out in a short address, the most interesting features of the Bureau of Motor Vehicles Department, at Columbus, which was established in 1907. Mr. Brown said: "The first year 10,649 licenses were sold in comparison with 1,373,000 passenger and 197,500 truck plates during the past year. It is expected that sales from licenses will amount in 1928 to $12,500,000, half of which amount is returned to the various communities." Continuing, he stated the results of new methods of handling the selling of truck tags this year "compelling truck owners to bring in certified weight slips will cause approximately $1,500,000 gain for the year," he declared.

Grover C. Synder, a former resident, now located in the highway department as superintendent of maintenance, spoke briefly, congratulating the Auto Club members upon their fine success during the past year. Others called upon for short toasts were Harry Hale, Columbus, formerly of here, who remembered the first automobiles in this county owned by the late Sherman Cuneo and Dr. O. C. Stutz in 1902, James Hopley and Frank Hopley, Bucyrus.

Directors elected by a nominating committee composed of Orry Fox, S. W. Martin and William Olpp were Charles Artz, C. W. Bringman, John Neate, H. C. Ramsdall, L. A. Kuenzli, William Olpp and S. N. Clark.

Bringman's Orchestra furnished music during the banquet hour and special solo numbers were sung by Frederick Peters.

ON COMMITTEE

Mt. Gilead and Upper Sandusky Girls Will Assist With Dance

LOSES APPEAL

Appellate Court Refuses New Trial to Wilbur W. Hand

Bucyrus, April 20—Wilbur William Hand, convicted by a jury here of robbing the Galion Commercial Savings Bank June 28, last year, and sentenced to from 12 to 25 years in the Ohio state prison for that crime, lost appeal in the appellate court at Lima, according to an announcement made at the clerk of courts. Hand is now at liberty under $25,000 bond. Efforts to carry the appeal for new trial to the supreme court will be made according to Attorney Kennedy.

CITY CONTRACT GOES TO MARYLAND FIRM

Is To Install Electrical Equipment at Kenton Waterworks

Kenton, April 20—Contract for furnishing and installing new electrical equipment in the municipally owned waterworks here, replacing the present steam plant, was signed late yesterday by Eugene F. Gelhaus, city service director.

The contract was awarded the Frederick Iron & Steel Co., Frederick, Md., on its bid of approximately $7,268.

Three other firms bid on the work as follows: Andrews Fay Construction Co., Cleveland, $9,500; Middle States Construction Co., Columbus, $12,200, and C. L. Bierly & Son, Lafayette, $8,772.19.

Under the terms of the contract a complete electrical pumping system will be installed, eliminating the present steam pumps and boiler rooms. Provisions will also be made to operate the pumps in event of an emergency.

$5,000 SUIT FOR SLANDER DISMISSED

Action Involving Ada Residents Ends in Hardin County Court

Kenton, April 20—Upon request of interested parties, the $5,000 slander suit of Mary Snodgrass against Nellie Crottinger, both of Ada, was dismissed by Judge Hamilton E. Hoge in the Hardin County Court of Common Pleas.

In a suit filed today the Chicago & Erie Railroad Co. asks that the court dismiss the temporary injunction recently granted the City of Kenton restraining the company from installing flasher light warning signals at the Main-st crossing here, replacing the present watchman.

The railroad holds that statements made by the city in its petition for injunction are untrue and that the city is not entitled to an injunction as a matter of law.

COURT ACTION IS THREATENED

Farmers Near Galion Oppose Creek Improvement Project

Galion, April 20—Court proceedings are threatened by a group of farmers who oppose the recent assessment made for improvement of Whetstone Creek. Protests have been filed through attorneys and the meeting of county commissioners which will be held to decide the matter is being anxiously awaited. Plans are to improve the drainage through Galion and to the east of the city and property owners here and farmers in the area are assessed in proportion to property holdings and benefits to be derived.

W. D. Richardson heads a committee of farmers fighting the assessment and Attorney B. J. Cattey of Crestline has been engaged to take legal action if the appeal to the commissioners is rejected. W. J. Geer, local attorney, is also representing a group of property owners entering individual complaints.

The farmers charge that the tax is excessive and that their land is not benefited by the creek improvement. According to their petition the property owners living in the creek district in Galion will be the only beneficiaries.

The creek has been in need of improvement for a number of years and the recent action taken met with approval here, and is being opposed chiefly by farmers residing east of Polk Township.

GALION MAN BEGINS PENITENTIARY TERM

Ervin Leitzy Taken to Prison on Manslaughter Charge

Galion, April 20—Ervin Leitzy of this city, convicted of manslaughter, began a sentence of from two to twenty years in the state penitentiary at Columbus yesterday. Leitzy was the driver of the car which ran down and killed George Gunther of Crestline on the night of Feb. 2, 1927. His arrest was made shortly after and he was convicted in the county courts. Attorneys fought the case through the Court of Appeals and the State Supreme Court, losing every appeal. During that time Leitzy has been out on bond.

Carl Helfrich, who accompanied Leitzy and Miss Mabel Montague, the night Gunther was killed, was acquitted of similar charges, but was arrested yesterday, charged with contributing to the delinquency of Miss Montague, who is now serving a term in the Delaware Girls' Industrial School.

PUPILS HOLD CALENDAR SOCIAL AT SCHOOLHOUSE

Bucyrus, April 20—The Kearsley Grade School gave a calendar program at that school last night. The pupils were dressed, each room to represent a month or seasons in keeping with the seasons represented, men said. A program was presented, part of which was a play by the teachers.

SANDUSKY MAN IS HIGH IN OPEN SHOOT

Breaks 191 Targets at Forest Club; Wind Cuts Down Scores

Kenton, April 20—Breaking 191 targets out of a possible 200, C. A. Bogart, Sandusky, was high man in the 16-yard singles, leading event of the registered shoot at the Glenwood Gun Club near Forest. Mark Hootman, Egerton, was second with a score of 188.

High winds which swept the range proved a serious handicap to the shooters and held down the scoring.

W. A. Miller, Jr., Lima, and Phil Gottron, Fremont, tied for honors in the 50 bird handicap breaking 45 targets apiece out of a possible 50. In the 100 target singles, Phil Gottron was high with 92, and C. O. Carrothers, Kenton, second with 91.

Scores in the 200 bird event were: E. Morgan, Columbus, and Dr. G. W. Cook, Findlay, 187; Carl Lamprecht, Cardington, 185; S. T. Waldbolt, Waterville, and C. A. Young, Springfield, 184; Guy Koon, Cardington, and T. H. Benton, Upper Sandusky, 183; C. R. Swartz, Kenton and L. S. Russell, Cardington, 181; W. A. Miller, Sr., Lima, 179; Cyrus Sears, Harpster, 175; C. M. Cooper, Sylvania, 173; K. E. Mitchell, Dunkirk, 172; W. A. Miller, Jr., Lima, 171; R. L. Adamson, Kenton, 169; J. A. Knierien, Toledo, 168; L. A. Baker, Kenton, 165; W. W. Coffman, Dublin, 163; A. F. King, Findlay, 153; G. W. Zay, Tiffin 148; L. H. Class, Sycamore, 165; J. H. Jolliff, West Mansfield, 162.

In the handicap the following scores were tallied: Frank Worst, Dunkirk, L. A. Baker, Kenton, S. T. Waldbolt, Waterville, R. Stahl, Willard, and Charles Bogart, 42 each; C. R. Swartz, Kenton, W. G. Cook, Findlay, L. H. Class, Sycamore, and Cyrus Sears, Harpster, each 41; C. F. Morgan, Columbus, 40; Carl Lamprecht and J. H. Joliff, 38; G. W. Zay, A. F. King, W. A. Miller, Sr., and L. S. Russell, Cardington, 37, 36, 34 and 32.

PRESENTS PLAY

Large Audience Attends Production of Little Theater Guild

Bucyrus, Apr. 20—A full house witnessed the production, "The Intimate Strangers," presented by the Bucyrus Little Theater Guild at the Bucyrus High School auditorium Wednesday night. The cast composed of Bucyrus High School and grade teachers delightfully portrayed their characters. Music played between the act was furnished by an orchestra composed of high school boys. The initial production was coached by Miss Kathryn Meek. Miss Helen Gooding, as leading character, played Isabel Stuart; Stanley Marzolf, William Ames; Miss Edith McKellip, Florence and Robert Heil, Johnny. Supt. E. N. Dietrich, station master; Forest Groves, Henry; Miss Ann Blosser, Aunt Ellen and Miss Ruth Heinlen Mattie.

The next play, which has not yet been selected, will be given the latter part of May.

TEMPORARY COURSE IS NEARING COMPLETION

Will Be Available for Practice Prior to Opening of New Grounds

Upper Sandusky, April 20—Construction of temporary greens and several holes for putting is nearing completion on Upper Sandusky's new golf course, located three and a half miles east of this city on the Bucyrus-Upper Sandusky Road. These can be used for practice shots prior to the opening of the main nine-hole course which will be ready for use by June 1, according to C. L. Ulrich, who is in charge of the course and club building.

The course will cover 80 acres of ground, the natural topography lending itself to the laying out of a course. The main course is a par 36 and there will be two par five holes; five par fours and two par threes. The total yardage on the course is 3,186. A lounge room for ladies is being provided in the main club house with a separate house for men to be equipped with showers and lockers. A drive for members will commence probably next week. The Evergreen Club has been selected as a suitable name.

ASKS PARTITION

Willie Edgell Files Petition for Division of Property; Court News

Mt. Gilead, April 20—Willie Edgell has filed a petition in the Common Pleas Court against Elizabeth Warner and others claiming an undivided one-half of 51 acres in Harmony Township as an heir. He asks partition of the property. C. H. Wood is the attorney for the plaintiff.

The answer if Benjamin Olds, defendant in the case of Ella Hall against J. V. Miller and others, has been filed in the Common Pleas Court here. The answering defendant claims that a mortgage on the property described in the petition, approximately 20 acres in Chester Township, was transferred to him and that it is a first lien on the property and asks that the mortgage be satisfied before the other claims. Benjamin Olds filed the answer in propria persona.

PLAN TRANSFER OF CHAUTAUQUA

Change of Location for Annual Hardin County Event Considered

Kenton, April 20—A committee to consider the advisability of making any changes in the site for the holding of the annual Hardin County chautauqua from July 29 to Aug. 5, was named today by William Kraus, association president.

It includes Carl Price, A. P. Hord and C. G. Phillips, members of the board of directors.

While the programs during the last dozen years have been conducted at Bell's Park, on the southwestern edge of the city, it has been suggested that the site be changed to Lake Idlewild, two and a half miles north of Kenton.

Would Cut Expense

By making this change a substantial decrease in the overhead encountered annually by the association would be effected, it was pointed out. The huge resort pavilion would be available for the programs and meetings and the grounds are already well lighted.

Through this arrangement, it was said, the expense of erecting the huge tent and of lighting it and the grounds would be eliminated in a large degree together with other expenses necessarily encountered at Bell's Park.

In late years the overhead at Bell's has resulted in losses during the chautauqua, according to statements.

SCHOOL GIRL INJURED WHEN WAGON OVERTURNS

Galion, April 20—Eleanor Walters, student of Leesville High School, north of Galion, is gradually recovering from injuries received Wednesday when the school wagon in which she was riding upset on the Portland-rd. One of the horses, stumbling and pulling the rein from the driver's hands, was responsible for the accident. The wagon turned over into a deep ditch and Miss Walters who was thrown through the window and cut, was the only one of the occupants injured. William Dapper was driver of the wagon.

BUYING DEMAND BOOSTS PRICES

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, April 20—Except for the brief reactionary period at the opening, the stock market today ignored the effect of higher rediscount rates in Boston and Chicago, as well as the $314,000,000 increase in brokers' loans to above the four-million dollar mark.

Industrial stocks were marked down 1 to 7 points in the first hour, but buying demand swept into the market in such volume that prices were whipped along aggressively, restoring all of the early losses and in some cases adding substantially to market values as compared with the previous close. As if to emphasize the abundance of funds available for the speculative markets, the call loan rate was marked down at mid-day from 4 3-4 to 4 1-2 per cent, for loans holding over until Monday of next week.

Firming up of the metals and petroleum markets constituted the principal development in the financial situation, outside of the money market, which again failed to upset the pace of the bullish leaders in the stock market.

Radio Fluctuates

Radio's sensational market movements were again the center of interest. The stock opened at 175 1-2, down 7 points from the previous close, but quickly recovered 10 points at 185 1-2, at which price trading was unusually heavy.

Speculative interest returned to the oil stocks and the New York City tractions. Seminole Crude Oil production has declined to approximately 275,000 barrels a day and a new low for the year. Production at this time last year was above 500,000 barrels a day and storage facilities were over taxed. Prices of crude and refined oils broke to the lowest levels, and in fact have as yet made little recovery, though the outlook has considerably improved.

The rails were steady, with St. Paul common and preferred leading the speculative division. Trading on the St. Paul adjustment bonds was the feature of the listed bond market, and the price advanced to a new high at 78, wheat and corn lost a good part of their previous gains, cotton was steady and crude rubber irregular.

NOTICE OF BIDS FOR COAL

The Board of Education of the Marion City School District, Marion, Ohio, will receive bids until 7 P. M. Monday, April 23, 1928, for the furnishing coal to the schools of said District in the amount of 2,000 tons, more or less. Bids will be received for 4-inch shaker screened lump soft coal to be delivered in the coal rooms of the various school buildings, the mowing away to be done by the janitors.

Bids must state full description of coal and particulars upon which same is conditioned and coal delivered must correspond with or exceed in quality that upon which bid shall have been submitted.

The Superintendent of Buildings shall inspect and accept or reject all coal upon delivery. Rejected coal must be removed and replaced with coal of the proper grade and kind and at the cost of the successful bidder.

All coal must be weighed upon scales approved by the Board, and weight slips for each load must be delivered to the janitor at the building when and where delivered.

All coal rooms are to be filled to capacity on or before August 10, 1928, and the balance if any to be delivered during the school year upon order of the Board.

Bids must be sealed and addressed to Hector S. Young, Clerk of the Board of Education of the Marion City School District, Marion, Ohio, and marked "Bids for coal."

The Board reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

HECTOR S. YOUNG,
Clerk.

MARKET TO CLOSE

Holiday Saturday to Relieve Hearing Pressure of Activity

New York, April 20—Governors of the New York Stock Exchange, at a special meeting, voted to close the exchange on Saturday, April 21, in order to relieve the heavy pressure of speculative activity in the stock market. The offices of the exchange and of the members thereof are ordered to remain open for the transaction of "regular office business on that date."

Governors stated that their reason for closing the big board at the week-end was to allow firms "to clear up accumulation of clerical work."

HAS RECORD YEAR

Cities Service Co. Profits in 1927 Largest in History

The Cities Service Co., securities of which are held by approximately 200 investors in Marion County, had the most successful year in its history in 1927, according to a notice received today by S. L. Gascoigne, local agent.

The annual report, just mailed out to stockholders, shows that net earnings of the company and its subsidiaries were $60,117,992, an increase of nearly 30 per cent over earnings of $46,306,907 in 1926.

Total assets of the organization mounted in 1927 to $869,030,357, as compared with $663,128,487 in 1926.

STOCK EXCHANGE

New York, April 20—The sale of a New York Stock Exchange membership has been arranged at a price of $395,000, a new high figure and an increase of $20,000 over the previously reported sale, it was announced today.

UNIFORMS FOR PUPILS

In compliance with the new Student's Uniform Law, all pupils of public schools in Manila, P. I. must wear a uniform. The committee appointed to a choose the type of apparel favors white sport shirts and white trousers for the boys, and something similar for the girls. The move is along the lines of equality and economy for pupils and parents.

During the first six days' operation of the new London-Cannes, France, air service, the only passenger carried was a woman, and the next person to use the plane was a doctor who had been called from London to attend a patient at Nice.

It is difficult to look important in the wrong kind of clothes.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Marion markets were quiet today. Dealers report buying slightly below normal with prices, in the main, unchanged from yesterday. Supplies of nearly all kinds of seasonable fruits and vegetables were plentiful. New beets, offered at three bunches for 25 cents, was the only change reported. New potatoes are being quoted at four pounds for 25 cents while old stock is holding at 55 cents a peck.

Dealers report new cabbage as becoming more plentiful. The price, however, continues high, a price of 10 cents a pound being asked. Some old cabbage in on the market. The quality is not good, however, and dealers report light sales. Hothouse tomatoes are coming on the market in small lots, but large enough, dealers say, to meet the demand. Good quality stock was being offered at 33 cents.

Both peas and green beans were only fairly plentiful and were being quoted at 50 cents a pound. Spinach was holding at 15 cents and leaf lettuce at two pounds for 25 cents. Endive is being quoted at 25 cents a pound.

Berry Supply

Strawberries were fairly plentiful and good quality stock was being offered at 40 cents a quart. Dealers are predicting large supplies of berries for the week-end markets but with no marked change in price. Apples are holding at three pounds for 25 cents. California oranges were finding a ready market today at from 25 to 80 cents a dozen.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, April 20—A world of selling in both the wheat and the corn markets caused downward reactions during the session yesterday, but the markets turned round late in the day and closed stronger than ever with good gains. On the break corn never got below the close of the day before.

At the end wheat was up 1⅜ to 2⅛; corn was up 2 to 2½; oats were ⅜ to ⅝ higher; rye was off ¼ to ⅝ better.

It was a day of enormous trading. Thomas Howell, big bull in wheat, was credited with buying over a million bushels of July wheat at around $1.50 in a single transaction.

Wheat opened more than a cent higher. Bulls, eager to take profits, poured their holdings into the pit. The sales were absorbed with surprising ease in the boiling market.

Market Uncertain Early

Early in the session it was difficult to tell whether the market would be able to absorb the selling without a decided break. But buying power from the outside kept expanding and late in the day was sufficient to take all the wheat offered and then some.

Prices firmed up and then began to advance rapidly, with shorts in a scramble to cover. When the gong sounded to mark the close, the pit was in a turmoil of executing orders and roaring like a record crowd at a ball game when the captain of the home team makes a home run.

Remarkable as was the demonstration of strength given by wheat, it was overshadowed by the power in corn. From a sharp advance of nearly 2 cents at the start, that market was beaten back from the top all through the forepart of the session.

Late in the day July corn was down 1 1-2c from the top price of its opening range. But it was like the squirrel that cannot be kept on the ground. It started up with the other futures and all of them made new highs and finished within half a cent of the tops.

In spite of the enormous strength showed by both the wheat and corn markets and the fact that they looked at the end as if they were ready to go right on up today, this morning may be a good time for ardent bulls to exercise caution.

This applies particularly to corn, for that market has closed higher at the end of every session for six successive days. This is an extremely remarkable run, such as does not happen on the average more than twice in a year.

While remembering that the present market is an exceptional one, nevertheless, past experience in speculative markets is worth recalling when the bull fever becomes as rampant as it is now.

The trader who makes himself remember now and then that there is plenty of time, and tempers his greed for profits with a few bitter recollections which he can probably dig out of his past, may add a few years to his life and, if he is young, postpone the need of hair-dye.

LOCAL ELKS PLAN TO ENTER CONTEST

Expect To Compete for Silver Cup at State Meeting

Arrangements for taking part in the annual state contest for a silver cup awarded to the lodge making the best showing in exemplifying the ritual of the order were made by Marion Lodge of Elks at its weekly meeting last night.

The contest will be held at the annual meeting of the Ohio Elks' Association at Cedar Point in August. The local lodge has never competed for the cup. With an exceptionally capable corps of officers in charge this year it is thought that the Marion organization will have an excellent chance of winning the honor.

Plans for holding the annual Mother's Day observance of the lodge the second Sunday in May were announced. Arrangements are in charge of a committee headed by W. C. Phillians.

Initiation of a class of candidates will feature the meeting next Thursday night, which will be followed by lunch.

Jay Vaughan, past exalted ruler, was guest of honor at last night's meeting and gave a short talk. His visit was made in connection with the joint meeting at his late home on the Marion-Galion road, and at 10 o'clock at St. John's Reformed Church, southeast of here. Burial was in Marion Cemetery.

HOLD LAST RITES FOR MRS. CAROLINE ZIEG

Rev. E. C. Burkhart, Thorneike, and Rev. Herbert F. Weckmueller, pastor of First Reformed Church, conducted funeral services for Mrs. Caroline Zieg, wife of Justice Zieg at 2 o'clock this morning at her late home on the Marion road, and at 10 o'clock at St. John's Reformed Church, southeast of here. Burial was in Marion Cemetery.

FUNERAL SERVICES TO BE HELD SATURDAY

Funeral services for Mrs. Nancy Ann Lester, 454 Thompson-st, who died at City Hospital yesterday, will be held at 4 o'clock Saturday afternoon at Wesley M. E. Church, Rev. G. A. Whitlock, pastor, officiating. Burial will be in Marion Cemetery. The body may be viewed at the Schaffner-Queen Funeral Home, E. Center-st, until funeral time.

AT DAUGHTER'S HOME.

The body of Mrs. Elizabeth Retterer, who died Wednesday, may be viewed at the home of her daughter, Mrs. George Lichtenberger, Pleasant Township, until funeral time Saturday. After services at the home at 1 o'clock and at Calvary Evangelical Church at 2, burial will be in Marion Cemetery.

MRS. ELNORA LUTZ DIES AT HOME HERE

Wife of James P. Lutz Taken After Six Weeks' Illness

Mrs. Elnora Virginia Lutz, wife of James P. Lutz, former City Health Officer, died at 11:30 o'clock last night at her home, 442 N. Main-st. She had been ill of pneumonia for six weeks.

Mrs. Lutz had resided in Marion practically all her life and for 40 years been a member of Central Christian Church. She was born in Warsaw, Ind., May 12, 1853, and came to Marion with her parents, Nicholas and Sarah Elizabeth Berry Crouse, in her infancy. Her father was a native of Indiana and her mother originally a Marion County resident. Mr. and Mrs. Lutz were united in marriage here April 5, 1871.

Surviving her are her husband, a daughter, Mrs. James G. Gates, 7717 Hartwell-av, Fordson, Detroit, and three sons, Carl G. Lutz of Montgomery, Ala., Fred C. Lutz, 264 Chestnut-st, and Clifford Lutz, at home, two half brothers, Daniel E. and James Lewis Snyder, eight grandchildren and one great grandchild. Fred and Clifford Lutz are proprietors of the Lutz Market, N. Main-st. Seven children, a sister and a brother preceded Mrs. Lutz in death.

Funeral services will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning at the Lutz home with Rev. George D. Groves, pastor of Central Christian Church, officiating. Burial will be in Marion Cemetery.

VARIED MENU SERVED TO WORLD WAR VETS

Contest Losers Eat Beans While Winners Dine on Chicken

Former members of Marion Voiture, 11 and 8, gathered at the American Legion dugout on S. High-st last night for a banquet celebrating the close of the American Legion membership campaign.

The voiture was divided into two groups for the campaign and according to a prearranged plan members of the losing side were to satisfy their appetites with old army style beans while the winners feasted upon chicken.

As the diners gathered around the banquet tables waiters filled in carrying plates heaped high with beans for the losers and large portions of chicken and all the trimmings for the winners. Later the losers also were served with chicken.

Following the dinner an imaginary campfire was circled by the veterans and camp and army experiences followed.

One of the features of the banquet was a large ice cream caboose moulded by Clarence Bowe of the Bowe Ice Cream Co.

Forest Fires Fanned By High Gale Rage Unchecked Along Atlantic Seaboard

Tear Through Southern New Jersey and Pine Belt of Long Island; Two Men Lose Lives; 10,000 Firemen and Volunteers Fight Blazes

New York, April 20—Forest fires, spread over a wide area by a 60-mile-an-hour gale which swept the Atlantic seaboard yesterday afternoon, were raging unchecked early today through southern New Jersey and the pine belt of Long Island. Two men lost their lives in New Jersey.

More than 30,000 acres of pine barrens were burned by a fire which is believed to have destroyed Lincoln Heights, a negro community in New Jersey, and gutted a dozen buildings in Barnegat. Checked in Barnegat, the fire destroyed two farm houses in Waretown, causing the death of Frank Eayres, 50-year-old farmer.

Two Barnegat firemen were burned seriously and Vincent Clayton, a coast guardsman, died from injuries sustained while fighting the fire.

Every available fireman from Barnegat to Red Bank, 65 miles away, coast guards and volunteers were fighting the flames.

Ten thousand firemen and volunteers were battling a fire which devastated 30 square miles of wooded territory between Bayshore and Central Islip, Long Island. With the danger increased by a strong northwest wind today, it was feared that the entire forest in this section would be burned out unless rain falls.

The lurid crimson of the burning forest attracted thousands of spectators. Smaller fires were burning a few miles north of New York City. All along the coast window panes were blown out, buildings rocked and the streets filled with debris. Scores were injured by flying planks, glass and signs.
